Peace Can Still Beat Columbia

By FRANK RUTTER

Peace River hydro promoters say they can beat the Columbia in starting construction, and will apply to the Public Utilities Commission within five weeks for a certificate of convenience.

Peace president W. C. Mainwaring said today: "We can start work tomorrow. It will be two or three years before heavy construction can start on the Columbia."

BIGGEST PROBLEM

He put the finger on financing as the biggest single problem still to be resolved for the Columbia. He did not say anything about Peace financing.

Federal and provincial officials announced Wednesday the agreement on a draft of treaty principles between Ottawa and Washington.

The agreement involves three Canadian projects — dams on the Arrow Lakes, at Duncan Lake and at Mica Creek.

Cost will be $450,000,000 for dams and transmission lines. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said today he hopes B.C. and Ottawa can soon discuss the details. "The most practical system must be evolved," he said.

50-50 LOAN SPLIT

He indicated this doesn't include the 50-50 loan split proposed unofficially by Ottawa on self-liquidating projects.

That would mean Ottawa would loan B.C. half the $344,500,000 required to build the dams alone at one eighth percent above its market price.

Mr. Williston said a clause in the proposed treaty which would allow Canada to sell back her downstream benefits to the U.S. instead of using them as "only common sense."

For the day when work on the first dam at Arrow Lake is completed and the U.S. can start using the water stored there to manufacture power.

OVERSUPPLY

On that day, said Mr. Williston, B.C. might not be able to absorb the power returned as "benefit," and wouldn't want to waste it, or give it away.

Destroyers and frigates of the RCN Pacific Command today commenced a sweep in search of a submarine off the West Coast.

An official navy announcement stated only: "Surface units of the Canadian Maritime Command Pacific are investigating an unidentified contact off the West Coast."

In accordance with naval practice, as laid down by regulations, specific area of the search was not revealed, nor were the names of the ships involved revealed.

However, a sudden change in naval ship movements today points to the destroyers HMCS St. Laurent and Ottawa, and the frigates HMCS Beacon Hill, New Glasgow, and Antigonish.

St. Laurent was scheduled to return at 10 a.m. Friday, Ottawa at 4 p.m. The three frigates, which left Wednesday, were due back early Monday. Return date for all five ships was altered today to "approximately Oct. 29."

Length of time allotted to the sweep would indicate the sighting was made some distance from this area.

There have been few sub sightings reported in recent months in the Pacific, but Friday an anti-submarine force headed by the U.S. carrier Kearsage headed out from San Diego to check out an unidentified contact.

Neither Canadian nor U.S. navies issue a public report on the results of such hunts, the purpose of which is to establish the identity of the contact if possible.

In the case of the Kearsage hunter group, the USN pointed out that the "bogey" was in international waters, and had every right to be there.

NEW MANAGER

'UNREALISTIC ATTITUDE' SAYS SOVIET

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin has accused Canada of taking an unrealistic attitude towards disarmament negotiations.

Commenting on External Affairs Minister Howard Green's call Wednesday for an immediate return to negotiations, Zorin said Canada was asking for negotiations irrespective of whether a basis for them had been found or not.

"We cannot agree with this," Zorin declared. For 15 years Russia had negotiated but it would not participate in any more "fruitless" talks.

"Do we have to meet again?" he asked.

That would once again be "negotiations for the sake of negotiations."

Fishermen Rescued

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia fishing boat Muriel Isabel sank 90 miles east of Cape Breton Island today but her 10 crew members were rescued without injury.

LONDON (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev told a meeting today in Moscow's Lenin Stadium that "Russia now has atomic-powered submarines armed with rockets."

Khrushchev boasted of the new Soviet military power in a report to some 12,000 persons, including top party and government officials, on his visit to the United Nations General Assembly session in New York.

The claim was made as a counter to reports that the United States plans to establish a NATO fleet of atomic submarines armed with Polaris missiles and manned by international crews.

In his wide-ranging review of the General Assembly session, broadcast by Moscow Radio, Khrushchev pictured the session as a triumph for Russia, pressed his opposition to the U.S. nuclear buildup, and demanded that the Berlin problem must be settled by next year.

DISARMAMENT HUB

The Russian premier described disarmament as "the hub of all vital problems of our time" and charged that the West did not want serious disarmament negotiations but merely used the talks to camouflage its policy of continuing the arms race.

He said another summit-level meeting of the General Assembly was necessary in March or April to reach some agreement in principle on the question of complete disarmament.

He also repeated that it had become necessary to introduce changes in the structure of the UN to reflect the new balance of forces between the Communist, imperialist and neutralist states.

By what right can Britain be regarded as a great power and India not a great power?" he asked.

He also renewed his attack on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, charging that he was "serving the monopolistic capital of the United States."

Khrushchev forecast that the "mechanical majorities" denying Communist China its rightful place in the UN would be overcome in the near future.

Khrushchev claimed Russia won the understanding and sympathy of many countries at the UN in "the struggle of the new, the progressive, with the old, the outworn, which is impeding the growth and development of the new."

BCE Rates Hearing By PUC, Nov. 16

The Public Utilities Commission has called a hearing Nov. 16 into its control over B.C. Electric rates.

The public hearing will be in Vancouver Public Library at 10 a.m.

The move follows a recent decision of the Supreme Court of Canada that the B.C. Electric may increase its rates at will within a "fair return" of 6.5 per cent on its operations.

Victoria and Vancouver city councils have been notified and

ON GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE

U.S. Envoy Warns Of Cuban Attack

During Election Campaign

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Robert C. Hill, United States ambassador to Mexico, told the American Legion convention today that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro may attack the U.S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay in Cuba before the Nov. 8 U.S. presidential election.

He said such a "foolhardy" attack would be designed to "disturb the nation."

"If Castro moves on Guantanamo, the United States must defend the base with all our strength," Hill said.

"This ought to show that we mean business and will not tolerate any further affronts to our country in Cuba or anywhere else in the world."

Gagliardi Post Not Affected By Conviction

Constitutional experts expressed unofficial views today that the $10,000 fine levied on Highway Minister Philip Gagliardi in Vancouver Wednesday for contempt of court, does not affect his position as a cabinet minister or MLA.

In any event Mr. Gagliardi is appealing the fine (see page 16), so that no question arises until a final decision in the case is made.

WHO WILL PAY FINE?

The case arose in connection with highway department payments to a contractor doing government work.

Also discussed in government circles was whether Mr. Gagliardi's fine, if upheld, would be paid by the government or personally. This presumably will be decided when the court action is finally settled. Mr. Gagliardi's position in the case was strictly a matter of his official position as head of the department, and Mr. Justice T. G. Norris said in his judgment that Mr. Gagliardi did not receive any benefit from it.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

These days of summer speak to us, O God, of Thy bounty and Thy goodness far beyond the measure of our worth. We acknowledge Thee and adore Thee as the source of every good and perfect gift. Show us how to express our gratitude. When the heat of the day tempts us to lose our self-control, be Thou to each of us the refreshing and restraining power to live quietly and in faith; through Christ. Amen.

FAKE AIR RAID CASTRO'S PLAN?

HAVANA (UPI) — An informed diplomatic source said today that five Cuban air force fighter planes were painted with U.S. air force insignia during the weekend at the suburban military airport of San Antonio de los Baños.

The diplomatic source identified the Cuban planes painted over at the army airport as single-engined British-made Sea Fury aircraft.

The planes were bought from British war surplus stocks several years ago by the regime of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The British used the Sea Fury, a propeller-driven aircraft, from aircraft carriers. They are armed with cannon as well as 50-calibre machine guns.

U.S. Firms Put Pressure On Canadian Subsidiaries

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent
(See also Page 5)

OTTAWA — Friction between United States and Canada is expected to arise as a result of the imposition by the American government of an embargo on trade to Cuba.

Attempts by United States parent companies to persuade Canadian subsidiaries not to export to Cuba will undoubtedly bring repercussions from the Canadian authorities.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has declined to comment on such possibilities. However in a parallel case two years ago Canada bluntly advised the Eisenhower administration that it would not tolerate American interference with exports of Canadian subsidiaries.

Canadian trade and commerce department officials said today already there are rumors in trade circles of American parent companies putting pressure on their Canadian subsidiaries not to ship to Cuba.

GO ELSEWHERE

There are reports too of American firms doing business in Canada informing their Canadian suppliers that they will take their business elsewhere if the Canadian firms start making shipments to Cuba.

Meantime it is expected in government circles here that Canada will take the position that it will not serve as a "back door" for the transshipment of American goods to Cuba. In other words it will not look with approval on a Canadian buyer obtaining shipments of American goods for re-shipment to Cuba.

CAN'T WORK

Ottawa is reported to have informed Washington that it does not believe that the United States' trade embargo against Cuba can work.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has certainly made it plain in a statement at Winnipeg, that Canada wants no part of the embargo. The prime minister at Winnipeg gave a flat rejection to suggestions that Canada join the U.S. in the embargo. He made that statement before Washington imposed the export ban.

Asked to comment in Ottawa after the U.S. announced its embargo Mr. Diefenbaker recalled his statement made in Winnipeg. It stood as government policy.

Embargo Request Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said today it has been conferring with Canada for several weeks on how to stop U.S. exports to Canada from being trans-shipped to Cuba.

The department denied charges by the Cuban-controlled wire service, Prensa Latina, that the United States had asked Canada to place an embargo on Canadian exports to Cuba. An embargo was placed on most U.S. exports Wednesday.

A spokesman said the United States and Canada were studying how to prevent Canada from becoming a base for circumvention of the U.S. ban. But he said that no specific plan had yet been worked out.

FRENCH CRISIS

Socialists Bid To Upset Gov't

PARIS (Reuters) — French Socialists today rallied support for a censure motion to overthrow Premier Michel Debre's regime as France faced its biggest government crisis since President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic came into being two years ago.

The crisis has swirled up around De Gaulle's bid to give France its own nuclear striking force despite widespread reports the United States plans to give atomic weapons to NATO.

Debre Wednesday night was driven to making De Gaulle's proposal a vote of confidence issue in the National Assembly.

The procedure puts the nuclear bill through without a formal vote and the Socialists' only recourse is to submit a censure motion—which needs an absolute majority of the whole House with abstentions counted for the government.

The Socialists, who "antibombs and missiles," allied talks on an integrated nuclear deterrent within the Atlantic Alliance, immediately began wooing centre and right wing legislators who dislike Debre's "steamroller" tactics.

They scheduled a meeting for today to draft a censure motion which would go before the assembly Monday. Passage of the motion could lead to De Gaulle dissolving the assembly and calling new elections.

But the Socialists were given little hope of mustering enough support to counter the votes of 215 Gaullists and other government supporters in the 552-member House.

The de Gaulle plan is wrapped up in a $2,400,000,000 five-year armed forces modernization program under which 50 supersonic bombers would be built to carry French atom bombs while development of a hydrogen bomb is also being pushed.

MAJOR NEW POLICY REVEALED

U.S. 'Open' Economy Promised by Nixon

NEW YORK (CP) — Richard Nixon, apparently sensing that his campaign needs a lift, today hinted at possible tax revisions if he becomes president.

In a major new economic policy speech, he said he would also attack "featherbedding" in all its forms, make price stability part of federal employment policy and set up a new economic council as a high government advisory body.

But perhaps of more interest to Canada and other exporters, he said he would keep the American economy "open" as part of an "imaginative, outward looking policy in international trade."

His economic policies, unveiled in a speech prepared for the Association of Business Economists, sounded more like those of a Democrat than those of a Republican. He talked of the need of reducing American dependence on government but at the same time enunciated programs which involved increased government action—something which Senator Kennedy also has been advocating. Nixon at the same time attacked what he described as opposition demands for lower interest rates at all times, saying this would invite foreign investors to pull their money out of the United States because of lack of confidence.

A lot of Nixon's policies were expressed in vague generalities but he made clear he favored "a tax system moving toward some revision in personal and corporate rates, reform in depreciation allowances, a broader base for excises at a rate well below those now in effect and protection of state and municipal revenues."

PARIS—A Paris court decided that to whack the bottom of a Folies Bergere

The court ordered male dancer Pierre Lesage to pay folies girl Lydia de Lipski 500 francs for spanking her behind.

Lydia explained that the smacking prevented her from appearing on the folies stage for eight days "because the bruises showed."

Lesage spanked Lydia in the theatre one night in December, 1959. She had just been awarded the French Legion of Honor for bravery with the French resistance against the Nazis during the war.

The male dancer ridiculed her, Lydia said, and she retaliated by judging from the company he kept. Lesage could never win such an award. Lesage then administered the spanking.

DALLAS, Tex.—Mrs. E. Collins, president of a local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Wednesday told a meeting of WCTU state leaders that she favors the Republican presidential candidate because "I feel sure that Mr. Nixon is the most confirmed non-drinker of the two."

MEXICO CITY—A taxi driver charged with beating his sweetheart went Soviet Premier Khrushchev one better.

Angered because he had to wait several hours for a hearing, Juan Ramirez de la Rosa took off a shoe Wednesday and pounded the railing in the police court to attract attention.

When that failed, he threw the shoe at the judge.

The shoe missed, but the judge sentenced Ramirez to 72 hours in jail for disorderly conduct in court.

VENLO, Netherlands—Harry Holthuyzen waited on the steps of St. Martin's Roman Catholic Church Wednesday for his bride.

Onlookers cheered as young Toos Bestjens arrived, radiant in white lace. Suddenly she screamed, turned and dashed back into the car, leaving Harry dumfounded.

The U.S. has lost its former power of attraction and no longer is as great a country on the international scene as it was before, Khrushchev said.

He said the General Assembly has recognized the importance of abolishing colonialism "but this does not yet settle the substance of the matter."

Turning to his criticism of New York as the site of the UN, Khrushchev argued that the choice had been dictated by the power and wealth of the U.S. 15 years ago and was also due to the fact that colonial peoples had no voice in the decision.

If the selection of a site came up again today, he said, it was unlikely Negro states would choose the U.S., where their leaders met racial discrimination everywhere.

SOME WOULD SURVIVE

Khrushchev said a new world war would bring terrible suffering and destruction to humanity—but Russia believed that humanity would not be totally destroyed.

The Russian people believed war would result in a victory for communism but they did not want such a war because of the suffering and destruction it would bring with it.

Khrushchev again proposed the convening of a summit conference in 1961 to deal with the question of Berlin and Germany.

"We propose the convening of a summit conference after the American election Nov. 8 to solve the problem of Germany and to solve as well the Berlin question," he said.

Mr. Williston admitted that estimates of B.C.'s requirements show that the province will receive far more than the 6.5 billion kilowatt hours it will receive as benefits when the project is operating.

B.C.'s 1966 requirements—25 billion kilowatt hours—are almost double those of today. However, the timing might not be right to use the U.S.-made power.

Power experts feel that if this were the case, B.C. might not sell the power, but get a "credit" or get it stored against the time when it is required.

General reaction to the announcement of Wednesday was good.

In the areas of B.C. where the development will take place, in politics, and among engineers, there was relief that long negotiating was nearly over.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan hailed the agreement, but warned that steps should be taken to protect the public from export of the power which becomes available.

He also said it should be kept away from B.C. Electric, the privately-owned utility.

Ambassador Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department recalled United States Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal from Cuba today for extended consultation. But officials said that a U.S. ambassador would be sent back to Havana.

'PLEASED WITH MICA'

He said, however, "we are very disappointed that High Arrow has gone through without too much consultation with ourselves. We are very pleased with Mica."

"The only thing we feel is that if they are going to flood that area (Arrow Lakes) they must do something for its support," said Mr. Stewart.

Water resources committee member Dr. F. E. Coy of Invermere said, "I am very pleased to hear it. It will make prosperity in the Kootenays for the next 10 to 15 years. I certainly think it's the best deal for Canada."

Commenting on the plight of people living in the area to be flooded on Arrow Lakes, he said, "you must certainly make some arrangements for those people. We rather hoped that some of the benefits from that storage will be extended into making that area into a recreational area of whatever presents itself so those people will be better off than what they are now."

STENGEL OUSTER INJECTED INTO ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Who Says Experience Counts?

QUITTING— FOR GOOD REASON

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy is quitting her husband's presidential election campaign — for a very good reason. Her doctors ordered her to stop because of the expected birth of her second child in December.

Her last appearance was with her husband in the ticker tape parade staged in his honor Wednesday, the Democratic candidate's press secretary said.

She will remain here a few days and then return to their home in Washington, D.C.

NEW YORK (CP) — John Kennedy suggested politely Wednesday night that Richard Nixon and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller don't trust each other — publicly or privately.

The Democratic presidential nominee also suggested the firing of Casey Stengel from the New York Yankees exploded the Nixon argument "that experience counts."

The two spoke before a posh audience at the Waldorf Astoria. They refused to shake hands for photographers.

The appearance came after a great ticker-tape welcome for Kennedy during a Broadway motorcade.

Nixon arrived quietly for a three-day stay. He expressed hope that Kennedy's big city supporter, Mayor Robert Wagner, would also stage a ticker-tape parade for the Republican.

Sputnik Started Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public opinion polls in foreign countries show conclusively that U.S. prestige has been on the decline ever since the Russian sputnik went into orbit in October, 1957, the Washington Post says.

The newspaper says this was the finding of President Eisenhower's committee on U.S. information activities abroad, headed by Mansfield Sprague, vice-president of the American Machine and Foundry Company and former assistant secretary of defense for international security.

In the current presidential campaign, Senator Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, says U.S. prestige is on the decline. Vice-President Nixon, the Republican candidate, says it is at an all-time high.

The polls in nine of 10 countries showed that "the peoples' confidence in the United States as the wave of the future, as a dynamic, growing country, has been on the decline since sputnik commenced."

Central Intelligence Agency charts presented to the Sprague committee, the newspaper says, have "confirmed the blackest allegations that the Democrats have made."

Cardinal Spellman Presides

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York who presided, described Nixon and Kennedy as men of goodwill, endowed with brilliant minds and dedicated to the welfare of Americans.

Kennedy, first to speak, cracked back that the cardinal was perhaps the only person able to bring to the same platform two political leaders "who eye each other so suspiciously and have disagreed so violently — publicly and privately" as Vice-President Nixon and Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller joined the audience in laughter.

Kennedy agreed with Nixon that religion ought not to be a major issue in the 1960 fight. It had been in the 1928 election when Al Smith, Catholic Democratic standard-bearer, Canada previously made contributions worth $423,500 under the Colombo plan for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Threat to Secede Issued By Congo Province Chief

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — The president of the Congo's capital province threatened today to secede in an open clash with army leader Col. Joseph Mobutu.

President Cleophas Kamitatu of Leopoldville province accused Mobutu's soldiers of maintaining a regime of terror, bloodshed and rape in the capital city.

Kamitatu ordered Mobutu and his provisional national government to stop the soldiers' activity or face expulsion within 48 hours by a "civilian mobilization."

The provincial president told a press conference that in the last 10 days the struggle between Mobutu and deposed premier Patrice Lumumba "has become a war."

Kamitatu has been a consistent supporter of Lumumba.

He in effect ordered Mobutu's 3,000 Congolese army troops in the Leopoldville area to stop carrying arms when he announced a ban on the carrying of arms by anyone but his 2,800 provincial police and UN soldiers.

He also announced a 30-day ban on publication of all newspapers in the province.

Kamitatu charged the Leopoldville papers had "concentrated on inciting the population to tribal hatred." The local press has strongly supported Mobutu.

Kamitatu said unless he received a satisfactory reply from Mobutu within 48 hours, he would convene the provincial cabinet and possibly the provincial assembly and would ask them to vote Leopoldville province out of the Congo.

U.S. SEEKING TO MAKE NATO ATOMIC POWER

LONDON (AP) — The foreign office said today Britain has informally received a new American proposal for making the Atlantic alliance an independent nuclear power.

This would be done evidently by arming NATO forces with Polaris missiles.

Details of the U.S. proposal were not disclosed.

There were immediate reports that the British government broadly is cool toward the idea of having nuclear arms generally distributed among the allies including West Germany.

In the view of some British authorities such a scheme would practically invite the Soviet Union to pass nuclear arms to Communist China and the satellites.

This might heighten the danger of nuclear war.

Jobless Training Space Requested

The emergency training program against unemployment got under way in Victoria this week as education officials lined up accommodation for classes.

First success appears to be in a course of practical nursing — one of a series of projects announced last week by Education Minister Peterson.

Three hospitals in Victoria were asked for aid in staff and space for taking on the course. One of them has the space and a board meeting will decide if it can be used for the provincial project.

CLASSROOMS SOUGHT

Greater Victoria school board is looking for classrooms to take day school classes up to Grade 12 and vocational classes.

Vocational classes were not originally planned for Victoria, but Mr. Peterson said Wednesday space is being sought for rent to give them.

"We have already received a number of enquiries from people wanting to take the courses," said an education department official today.

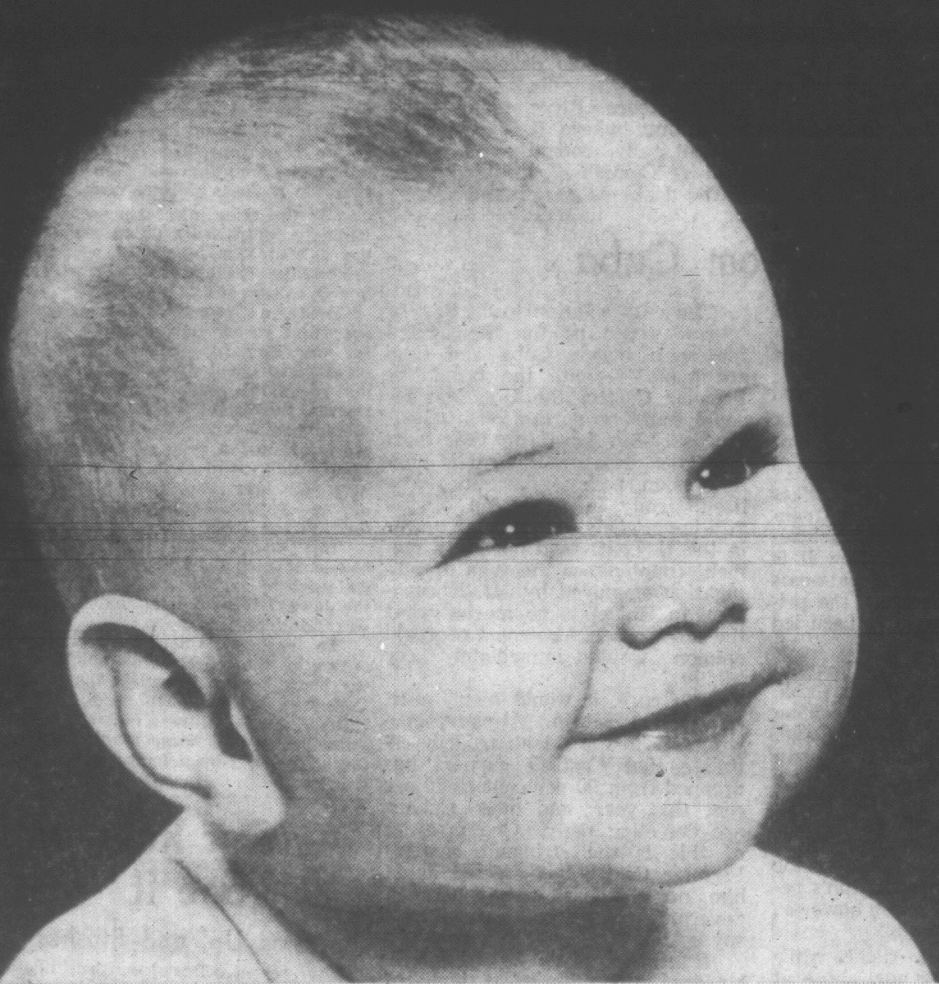

"We have taken their names and asked them to call again in about two weeks."

Mr. Peterson said he expects the program to be in operation early in November.

The entire program costs will be shared by the federal and provincial governments, with Ottawa paying three-quarters.

Action on the Columbia

MR. DIEFENBAKER HAS REVEALED details of Canadian-American negotiations toward a treaty covering Columbia River hydro development.

They disclose a satisfactory deal for Canada, a good deal for British Columbia and a situation which apparently postpones indefinitely the Peace River power promotion.

The treaty has still to be drawn up and approved. At the moment, however, the measure of agreement reached by the negotiators of the two countries promises early completion of formalities.

As was to be expected, compromises have been reached. The prospective treaty will not represent the plan which would have emerged had Canada been proceeding with the development alone. Nor will it conform to the scheme which the United States would have carried out had that country been working independently.

In the give-and-take of negotiation, however, Canada seems to have emerged with at least a fair share of advantages. The question of downstream benefits is to be settled with a return to Canada at the border of half the extra power generated downstream as a result of Canadian dams. This country is to receive a cash payment, estimated at $65,000,000, for providing flood control in the United States. Arrangements have been proposed for the simultaneous construction of High Arrow, Mica Creek and Duncan Lake dams. These projects will be completed at different times, thereby facilitating the big task of financing the work.

Canada has yielded in its adamant opposition to the proposed American Libby dam. The United States is allowed five years in which to decide whether or not to proceed with that project. While Canada has never favored the dam, this country could, in the long run, benefit from the controlled flow it would bring to the Kootenay River.

There is apparently still some discussion to be undertaken between British Columbia and Ottawa over financing the work. This is a matter of detail—very important detail, but not of a nature to prevent construction. It seems reasonable to assume that any federal-provincial arrangement on that score will earmark the flood control benefits accruing from Columbia dams for the multiple development of the river.

Mr. Diefenbaker says that the projects, and arrangements for sharing downstream benefits, will give British Columbia power at a rate under four mills at the border. This is a price among the lowest in the world and substantially less than the average cost of power in British Columbia today.

According to the Prime Minister, Canada's share of the downstream benefits will be sufficient to meet one-third of the needs of the densely populated and industrialized southern portion of the province until 1972. Mr. Davie Fulton adds that full use of the Columbia basin potential, with Canadian at-site generation, will furnish enough power to meet rising British Columbia needs for the next two decades.

This provides the answer to the Columbia-Peace River issue. If it is feasible to acquire from the Columbia cheap power in sufficient quantity to meet British Columbia's needs for the next 20 years, then the Peace promotion seems to be shelved for some time to come. A domestic market adequate to justify both the Peace and Columbia production does not exist at present. And the northern development must proceed, when it proceeds, as a major undertaking from the start.

Only if power export, now prohibited by federal law, were permitted—and it is unlikely that Pacific Northwest states would import high-priced power from the Peace—would there be enough consumers to justify the two developments at this time.

Cheap power from the Columbia surely could not be exported to the United States merely to provide a Canadian market for a more costly supply from the Peace.

Mr. Fulton says that there is still a lot of strenuous work ahead in drafting a treaty, but that the worst is over. Reaction from President Eisenhower and from Government sources in Victoria indicate that the Columbia development is virtually on the rails.

The Peace River plan is on the siding, where it should stay without any commitments from British Columbia, until greater traffic demands start it rolling.

Abuse From Cuba

AMERICAN PATIENCE IS being sorely tried in Cuba. Indeed, many Canadians must be wondering these days how long Uncle Sam can continue to endure the outrages perpetrated almost daily by the megalomaniac Castro and his shaggy followers.

Hundreds of millions of dollars of American capital has been confiscated. A few days ago, 382 businesses were taken over. Now it is revealed that American nationals attempting to intervene in the private affairs of Cuba have been led to the firing squad.

Washington yesterday imposed a drastic trade embargo on Cuba. Only certain foods and medicine may be sold to Fidel Castro's island. It is economic reprisal for the Cuban Government's attacks and one which may pinch the dictatorial regime. It is a desperate gamble in one sense, in that it is bound to increase Russia's opportunities for trade with Cuba. Washington's reaction to this possibility, however, is: "That's just too bad."

The U.S. suffers in silence while Castro and his aides hurl abuse at the country which helped them win their freedom from Spain. The juvenile general, Raoul Castro, says publicly that he would like nothing better than to "drop three atom bombs on New York."

The naval base at Guantanamo is threatened. Meanwhile, Russian technicians swarm into the island and the very grave spectre arises of a hostile H-bomb base just 90 miles off the Florida coast.

Driving to Low Marks

STUDIES CONDUCTED BY principals and vice-principals of Toronto schools seem to carry a step further the findings of an American insurance company's survey of students who own or have the use of cars on school days.

The insurance survey produced evidence to the effect that the standing of students did not improve from car ownership or use on school days, it deteriorated.

The Toronto studies revealed similar facts. One principal actually found that students who drove to school regularly did not, in a single case, make first-class grades and that half of them had already failed one year.

The studies disclosed that about 10 per cent of those old enough to get drivers' licences drove to school. The drivers were divided about equally among those who drive their parents' cars, those who drive cars bought for them by parents and those who have bought their own cars.

The last mentioned usually have to take part-time work to pay for insurance and upkeep and conceivably lose time which should be applied to studies.

There are several logical explanations which might be offered for the inferior grades of car-using students. But, explained or not, the fact seems clear that student drivers do not score in their studies. The message should not be hard for parents to understand.

A Policy Decision More Important Than All the Speeches

By MAX FREEDMAN

ACROSS the election campaign has suddenly fallen the ugly shadow of protectionism. The nor, reversing their stand of a year ago when they refused to pass a similar resolution, have now gone on record as favoring more control on imports. This decision marks the end of the southern support of a cardinal doctrine of the Democratic party. Many southern members of Congress will of course continue to support a generous trade policy. But the solid southern bloc in favor of this principle now belongs to the past. This change in sentiment is infinitely more important in terms of future policy than all the speeches now being made in the campaign.

The latest decision is not altogether unexpected. There have been many warning signals in the past few years, as the south has grown more industrial, that it was beginning to be interested in protection.

Nor has Senator Kennedy been unresponsive to this sentiment. He has many troubles in the south that he has been reluctant to challenge the protectionists who might easily swing to the Republicans in the face of an outright denial of support from the Democratic leader.

So Mr. Kennedy has chosen to blur the issue and to give a few hostages to the protectionists. He has already said he would use his power in the White House to give tariff protection to the textile industry and the boot industry; he has declared that he would have signed the lead and zinc bill vetoed by Mr. Eisenhower, and he has refused to condemn the use of quotas.

All these statements are in conflict with the Democratic platform adopted at the nominating convention in Los Angeles.

The southern decision rests only partly on a fear of imports. It also is prompted by a hatred of trade unions. Here again its action is directly related to the campaign.

Union Issue

Mr. Nixon has challenged Mr. Kennedy to prove that he is free from union domination. Accepting that challenge, Mr. Kennedy, at the recent meeting of the steelworkers' union, disavowed the proposal by Mr. David MacDonald, the union's president, that the work week in the industry should be cut to 32 hours to eliminate unemployment or under-employment.

Mr. Kennedy said that the demands of national security require more production from the steel industry, not more leisure for the steel workers. The same point was made by Mr. Nixon. But Mr. Nixon also wondered if Mr. Kennedy would be able to resist further pressures from the steelworkers union, especially as Mr. MacDonald had been the first important union leader to endorse Mr. Kennedy for the presidential nomination.

Resist Pressure

One way in which Senator Kennedy can persuade the south that he is able to resist union pressure is by supporting tariff protection for southern industries. Many of these industries are opposed to the spread of national unions in the southern states; and they will therefore try to link protectionism and unionism in their campaign.

Senator Kennedy's national position forbids him to be the enemy of the unions. He may be able to compromise, however, by ceasing to be the enemy of protectionism. That at least is the southern calculation.

The extent of the commitment to protectionism by the southern governors conference can be measured when the points in its resolution are analyzed.

It has asked for immediate quotas on textiles, shrimps and all other areas where "imports are damaging the American economy," a phrase which really means that some American firms are unable or unwilling to meet foreign competition.

It has asked that mandatory oil quotas be continued. This quota at present favors Canada but there is no assurance that the oil industry of the United States, whose lobbyists were both active and successful at the conference, will be permanently content with this arrangement.

It called upon the President and Congress to take whatever measures are necessary to prevent further trade concessions at the current GATT negotiations in Geneva on any commodity affected by excessive imports.

Finally, it asked for an intensive inquiry under the sole and exclusive authority of Congress into the entire trade program so that it could be revised in accordance with harsher restraints on imports.

Dangerous Proposal

This last proposal is the most dangerous, for Congress is always more respectful of local interests than the President and the state department can dare to be.

This southern revolt against its long-continued traditions could hardly have come at a worse time. The United States is now trying to make the GATT conference a success and to use that success as a means of easing the trade rivalries of Europe.

This enterprise will fail unless the United States and Canada are willing to take more imports from Europe. If the southern governors have their way, the American markets will become less open to world trade, with results that will affect the entire world economy. Here is one point that must be carefully watched in coming months.

'Such Insights as That All Dons Hate All Undergraduates'

EVERYTHING may be forgiven a freshman, except the fact of his being one. But from my second year on, I think I would have expired from shame if anyone had come into my rooms at Cambridge and seen over the fireplace a Jesus College crest.

(By the same miserable snobbery, I willingly contracted a dozen colds from the baleful fens because I would not protect the chest and throat with an honest college scarf.)

Today, a Jesus shield is mounted over that corner of my study that is for ever England. Its roosters contemplate the original of a "Granta" drawing of King's with verse by James Reeves, the bottled barley of Scotland, the juniper compound with a monk on the label, and a relic of my introduction to politics—a stein retrieved from a Munich beer garden while the voice of an accomplished maniac howled through the trees.

This curious man had eyes like bloodshot ping-pong balls and was, as we used to say, very "het-up" about the Jews. I learned later that his name was Adolf Hitler.

To earnest Americans, who are struck by the red and gold shield with the black border, I explain that Jesus College has the most poetic of all college crests; three defiant cocks, symbolizing the unrepentant kiss of death, enclosed by a fringe of weeping crows.

As Our Readers See It

'Bottoms Up' and Blushes

Your recent editorial entitled "Loose Talk," indicates that you evidently forget to read your own newspaper.

Dr. Hugh Keenleyside is, indeed, very, very right, and merely echoes the thoughts and feelings of thousands of equally irate readers.

You say your columns are so clean and so innocent. Many times I have flushed with anger and amazement at the columns and columns of space given to detailed descriptions of bold robberies, gruesome murders, indecent acts and immoral living, a glaring example of which was the Errol Flynn episode.

Too, your brazen movie advertisements, and brazen photographs taken of many of our young girls at beauty queen contest times, are equally disgusting.

Seldom is the face seen as one would expect. It is usually bottoms, and legs up and bottoms bare. You don't do that with pictures of cute kittens and beautiful dogs. I notice they are always sunny side up as they should be.

Do you think, Mr. Editor, that the general intelligent public approves of all the above mentioned? It does not.

We longed and prayed for a good music radio station. We finally got it. Perhaps some day, and I hope it will be yours, Mr. Editor, that we will have a good newspaper too.

No children were ever born bad. They learn from the adults. Delinquent adults produce delinquent children.

And so, I say, Dr. Keenleyside owes no one an apology. It is you who owes an apology to him.

LYDIA ARSENS.

1427 Thurlow Road.

I do not advance this theory to visiting Englishmen, because they either know that it is false or they are triumphantly unaware of all indoor surroundings not their own and would be as unlikely to raise their eyes to the Staffordshire head of John Wesley as to raise an eyebrow at the drawings he stonily ignored, namely a set done by Vertes on the general subject of Maisons, in which, the snooper may discover, a Maison is not a home.

Anyway, I do not feel called on to deprecate my memorabilia or apologize for the sentiment that keeps the shield over the bar, a fifteenth-century map of California on the wall, or a miniature bust of H. L. Mencken on the desk. They are all part of my personal past, and as one finds out regrettably late in life, no part of one's past is to be denied.

Puts a Tag

This is by way of wriggling into the confession, which is nauseating to all healthy undergraduates, that Cambridge "puts a tag on a man," as they used to say in Warner Bros. films about the United States Marines.

I hasten to make a distinction between the middle-aged recognition that one's university was a powerful influence and the youthful credo that a Harvard man is a very special thing. (For Harvard read Oxford, Cambridge, Leeds, Stanford, or Ohio State.)

No human attribute that I can think of off hand offers a bleaker prospect of maturity than that early yen for "college spirit" which looks harmless enough in its early symptoms (cheering the side on wet days, hanging oars on walls, praying for divine guidance in the Lenten) but is later seen to have doomed its addicts to permanent infantilism.

A young man who is inclined to cheer at the mention of his college is a dangerous adolescent. An old man who drops a tear at the same provocation may be a fool but may also be an honest man recognizing one subtle force that has made him.

It is hard to tread the sensible ground between this swamp and this dewy pasture. And most books about either of the ancient universities wrestle and writhe with the hopeless task of trying to make an early love affair sound rational and important for people who never had it.

All the Traps

Mr. R. J. White's book ("Cambridge Life," Eyre and Spottiswoode.) is a hard working exception in that it spots all the traps of sentimental attachment and is yet able to convey that something important happened when early monasteries and almshouses stumbled through the centuries into the idea of a university, and that something even more important is happening in a century in which the university may not only obliterate the colleges but be itself absorbed into a national Government plan for breeding engineers and scientists in quotas determined by the Soviet production line.

Mr. White, for one, has come a long way since the last good book on Cambridge (written by John Steegman in 1940), which ends with a slap at the Cavendish Laboratory, a fear that "the university may gradually approximate to a collection of training centres," and a compensating assurance that "the Cam being the Cam" Cambridge life will maintain its immemorial "character and rhythm," that it will remain a place where indulgent fathers will finance "a few years of intellectual pubescence," and where the boy from the elementary school ("unquestionably excluded from everything that makes Cambridge worth while") had better not go.

I am sorry to seem so brusque about an earlier book that still gives me more pleasure than the others and that follows the architectural ups and downs of Cambridge with unexcelled knowledge and wit.

It is unfortunate that it suggests the point of departure (the Blitz on Britain, I suppose) at which neither the ancient universities nor the social structure of Britain could for long be the same again, in spite of the present flirtatious interlude with the old snobberies, with the increasingly unreal status of the public (public?) schools, with the slippery pretence that the tradition of Oxford and Cambridge, and of the nurseries that feed them, have simply been strengthened and prolonged by taking in the able poor as the crumbling stately homes of Edwardian England were propped up by the importation of wealthy, long-stemmed brides from across the Atlantic.

Social Problem

Mr. White meets the social problem in an ingenious and possibly calculating way (he may have his eyes on the movie rights). He interlards his agreeable chapters on the history and customs of the place with slabs of fiction built around a cast of characters who exhibit all the old contemptibles—the querulous dean, the penny-pinching bursar, the purblind classicists, the complacent chemist—alongside a crew of traditional (i.e. upper middle class) undergraduates salted with newer types who might have read for parts in "Look Back in Anger."

It all ends happily, with the squire and the pious firm friends, with the tutor deploring "the unfair start that the public-school boy enjoys in the competition to get here" and the Master (the villain, this) whinnying that he is after "the best men" and it's not for him to question why some boys go to public schools and some do not. "Not the ostrich, but Pontius Pilate, eh?" says the tutor, in a punch-line that should sell this book to Twentieth Century-Fox.

If universities could be radically changed by the men who run them, Mr. White would get my vote as the Chancellor. He knows the place inside out, he is genuinely and decently amused at the fuss over the latter-day mixture of social types. He is as knowledgeable about university politics as C. P. Snow, and he is quite untroubled by such accurate insights as that all dons deeply hate all undergraduates.

Unhappily, I don't think Mr. White is going to be nominated. Universities, like political parties, are rarely transformed from the inside. The British Empire, said Acton, was due to a rise in the price of pepper. Cambridge was put on its feet as a university when Pope John (the last one, not the Great Lakes) permitted its masters to teach through Christendom. No doubt it went through many changes great and small that generations of complaining graduates would deplore as revolutions.

But when the RAF Fighter Command held and destroyed the Messerschmitts, Cambridge and much else in Britain received a summons to reform. When the Reformation is to begin is anybody's guess. Khrushchev's as much as anybody's. Probably, as Mort Sahl says, the future lies ahead.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I KNOW I LOOK TERRIBLE, BUT THAT'S THE WAY YA GOTTA LOOK WHEN YOU GO VISIT PEOPLE!"

Why Not Be Ourselves?

THIS morning I picked a violet in our garden, dreamed briefly of spring and thought of the current publicity suggestion to advertise Victoria as Canada's Mediterranean resort.

Stott

It isn't unusual to pick violets here in October or November. A soft season will bring them along. I don't know enough about botany to say whether they're second crop flowers, late-comers from the seasons past or too early harbingers of a season to come. All I know is that they're blooming in the garden now, though not in great profusion.

When other parts of Canada are reporting their first snowfalls and the onset of winter, a violet in a Pacific Coast garden is an attractive reminder of our equable climate. It doesn't necessarily make us a "Mediterranean" area.

We've been lucky with our weather this month—and, provided we run true to form, we'll be relatively lucky, in comparison to the rest of the nation, when winter comes. It will come and we'll have some miserable days. Some of the Prairie folk who come here will complain of the "damp cold," which is something most of us are used to.

But, however you figure it, we won't suffer to the degree that other regions suffer. That is simple, meteorological fact. It seems to be recognized throughout Canada and in many other parts of the world. Victoria is Victoria and to some of us, who may be prejudiced, a good place to live.

So why don't we publicize it as Victoria? Why superimpose an Italian accent on the assumed broad "a" of an ersatz "little bit of old England" to sucker in people who very often are happy enough to meet us and see us as we are?

For the better part of a day last May, Pat and I rode a bus along the Italian shore of the Mediterranean. Unfortunately the sky was overcast and the famous sea wasn't the sparkling blue of conventional literature.

It can be blue, often is—just as the Strait of Juan de Fuca is.

Even on that overcast day, the Mediterranean was lovely for swimming at a little place called Santa Marinella. The water was warm, saltier and more buoyant, it seemed to me, than the sea around our coast. And, as we drove through the Tuscan Riviera and the Italian Riviera to Rapallo and eventually Genoa, there were a hundred features that appealed to us.

There were a few characteristics not so attractive. The flies and prevailing ammonia-like aroma of Grosseto, which told a story of plumbing facilities different from ours, were not too inspiring at lunchtime. The way certain drainage pipes reached into the bay at Rapallo indicated that Ross Bay isn't the only place in the world that has an outfall problem.

In spite of that, we liked the section of the Mediterranean we saw—liked it the more part because it was dissimilar to the shores we know here. As they say in an old and impolite story, "Vive la difference."

Also, "Vive la difference" here. Let's be us and nobody else. We don't make too good a job of pretending to be other people. Our personalities aren't suited for the imitation. Furthermore, we'd be put in jail if we followed some of the behavior patterns of the Mediterranean and have our face slapped for other practices accepted there.

There are some institutions on the Mediterranean that we might well copy. A place where they served a good spaghetti dinner, with Chianti at a dime a glass, would be an attraction for visitors and home-townners alike.

But when anyone implies that we ought to make like we're the Riviera, I remember a visit we paid to Torquay. Torquay has palm trees on the seafloor. And while we were there small children who went bathing because they were at the seaside and that's the thing to do at the seaside, turned blue rather than any ancient Briton dyed in wool. It just wasn't tropical because somebody pointed to unusual vegetation. In the same way, Victoria, even with October violets, isn't the Riviera.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Go to the Movies for Quiet

LONDON—Except in the case of some film that attracts special interest, going to the movies in this country is a pretty lonely pastime.

Reyrburn

Often at afternoon sessions at certain suburban cinemas barely a dozen patrons turn up. What this means to the industry as a whole has just been outlined by Lord Rank, head of the vast organization that bears his name.

He says that cinema attendances this year will be around the 500,000,000 mark. It sounds a nice big figure by itself but when you relate it to former years it's disastrous.

In 1946, the first "normal" year after the war, people rolled up to the movie houses to the tune of 1,635,000,000.

This is bad enough but what worries the Rank organization is that there is no sign yet that rock bottom has been reached.

There isn't any indication of when movie patrons are going to cease deserting the cinemas at this astounding rate of 1,500,000 per week.

Ranks are meeting the crisis in two ways—retrenchment and co-operating with the enemy.

The 550 cinemas they used to own they have been closing down over the past five years at a rate of 30 a year. To try and make these properties earn some money, they're converting many of them into ten-pin bowling centres.

With the bowling experiment a success in London, 10 new 24-lane centres will open at provincial spots such as Manchester and Birmingham in the coming year.

HOME GARDEN

Rare Blue Salvia Worth Keeping

One of the most interesting of the annuals warrants a publicity notice while it is still in flower.

Hilda

A surprise to many gardeners who have seen it in our garden, the blue Salvia farinacea, variety "Blue Bedder," has certainly proved worthy of a place next year.

The red salvias are well-known, and the blue perennial species are grown by those who like something different, but although it is not new by many years, this blue variety is seldom seen.

As with the red salvia, Blue Bedder is rather slow in its early stages, so that it had to be sown indoors on February 20. Seedlings were picked out as soon as they could be handled, and the young plants kept growing steadily under glass until the beginning of June.

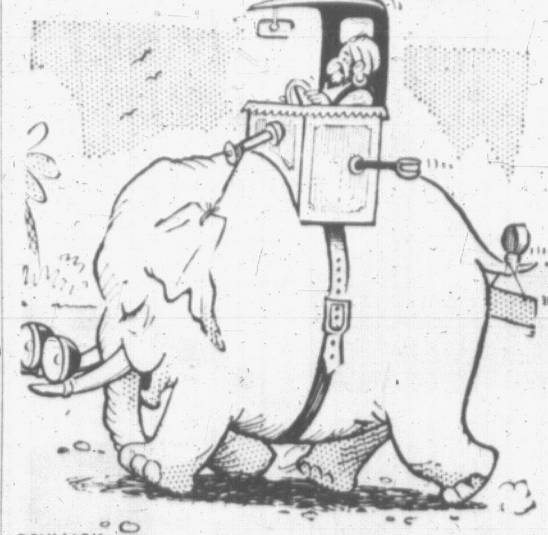

It is noticeable that certain annuals which grow in warmer climates than ours (S. farinacea comes from Texas), are usually highly susceptible to cold and frost while in the young stage, but will gradually become acclimatized to the point where they disregard cool nights and even several degrees of frost by the fall season.

So it is with this lovely salvia, deserving of the adjective for both its general habit and especially for the long-lasting flowers.

A brief description will perhaps be enough to inspire gardeners: a bushy plant, to about two feet high; narrow, grey-green leaves about three-inches long; the square flower stems rise above the leaves, and are a rich dark purple-blue, the same shade as the tiny flowers which crowd the stems for six inches.

In a garden sheltered from cold winter winds, the roots may prove hardy for there is a quantity of new growth appearing now at soil level, indicating that the plant would like to be a perennial if it had a chance.

U.S. 'At End of the Line' In Trade Squeeze on Cuba

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States apparently faces serious difficulties in imposing any major new economic or political pressures on the pro-Communist Castro government of Cuba.

State department officials said today the U.S. has gone about as far as it can in applying what amounts to sanctions against the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The latest move came Wednesday when the commerce department ordered a curb on all U.S. exports to Cuba except medical supplies and some foodstuffs. The Maritime Commission at the same time banned the transfer of American-owned ships to Cuba.

Earlier this year the United States had cut off aid to Cuba and had virtually closed the U.S. market to Cuban sugar purchases.

The next most likely step could be the freezing of Cuban assets in the United States. Officials said the volume of these assets were probably not more than a few million dollars.

In informal discussions in the state department the policy of isolating Cuba is said to have developed in connection with the desire to keep Communist influences from spreading from Cuba into other Latin American countries.

There has also been some talk of the possibility of breaking off diplomatic relations with Castro, but the state department officials discount this completely under present conditions. They would prefer to maintain some channel of communication with the Cuban regime such as is afforded by the United States Embassy in Cuba.

The possibility of taking joint action with other Western Hemisphere allies through the Organization of Western States is under constant study at the state department. The problem is that in many Latin American countries Castro has the status of a popular revolutionary hero. Though the governments are aware of the Communist danger now present in Cuba they feel themselves restricted in what they can do because of Castro's appeal among many of their own people.

Shiploads of spare parts and other essential imports from the United States have been stockpiled by the Cuban government in an attempt to blunt the effect of the U.S. trade embargo posted Wednesday on Cuba.

Premier Fidel Castro's government took advantage of the drawn-out Washington debate on the U.S. economic embargo by building up the stockpiles.

Shipping manifests show the Cuban government anticipated the economic boycott, which covers everything but food and medical supplies, by heavy orders of such automobile parts as spark plugs, fuel pumps and carburetors, plus oil refinery replacements and sugar mill supplies.

Economic experts here said Cuba would turn to Canada and Mexico to buy spares for American-built equipment.

CASTRO PAPER CLAIMS

Canada, U.S. 'Split' Over Cuba Embargo

HAVANA (AP)—The government controlled press claimed Wednesday the U.S. embargo on exports to Cuba has split the United States and Canada.

The Cuban government news agency distributed a report quoting top Canadian officials as rejecting the U.S. approach toward Cuba. The papers gave the report prominent display.

The evening newspaper La Calle headlined its report from Washington: "Tension between United States and Canada." It quoted Prime Minister Diefenbaker as saying the U.S. embargo is imprudent and precipitate.

La Calle said Canada had shown friendship to Cuba and this made certain that the U.S. economic blockade would not be effective.

In Winnipeg Sunday, Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada has "no intention whatsoever of imposing any embargo on Canadian goods in Cuban trade."

He told reporters Wednesday after a morning cabinet meeting that he has no further observations to make.

The United States embargo on trade with Cuba, he said, "is a matter of United States policy." As such it would draw no comment from the Canadian cabinet.

JAPAN TRADE BACKED BY TORY MP

OTTAWA (CP)—James W. Baskin, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for Renfrew South, said Wednesday that Japanese industrialists are not anxious to flood the Canadian market with cheap Japanese goods.

Mr. Baskin, who returned Wednesday from the World Interparliamentary Conference in Tokyo said Japanese want to send goods to the Canadian market that are not produced in Canada.

He said Japanese industrialists are interested in buying from Canada greater quantities of wheat, copper, asbestos, uranium, magnesium, lumber and hard coal.

Royal Oak Cow Top Producer

Woodwynn Forward's Fortune, owned by Gordon Rendle, Royal Oak, has been awarded the Scott and Peden Cup for the highest producing Jersey cow on Vancouver Island in 1959.

Announcement of the award is being made now because certain calving requirements were necessary before the final winner could be determined.

Fortune produced 706 pounds of butterfat in 305 days at five years of age, and calved again within 14 months. Her breed class average, which allows for an age differential, was 177 per cent.

Runners-up were Koksilah Bassinette's Baba, owned by John Hulbert of Koksilah, a 10-year-old cow which produced 636 pounds of fat for a breed class average of 174 per cent; Arrowsmith Serene of Arrowsmith Farms, Hilliers, seven years, 700 pounds fat, 172 per cent; Kierholm Valour's Babe, William Kier, Duncan, two years, 541 pounds fat, 166 per cent.

This contest for the Island Jersey giving the most butterfat was started in 1932, when the Wattle Cup was offered for competition and was won by E. C. Hawkins of Westholme.

In 1954 the cup was destroyed in a fire at MacLennan Farms, Saanichton, and for two years the award was made with no cup. The new trophy was made available for the same competition in 1957.

All-time high production mark to win the cup was set in 1942 by Coleshill Princess, owned by a Mrs. Weiler of Sooke, which gave 934 pounds of butterfat.

DUNCAN—If it hasn't got the money to fix a busy road, badly in need of rebuilding, where does the highways department find funds to repair a little-used secondary road?

That is the question members of Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce are asking.

Still trying after two years to have the department allocate funds to rebuild Cowichan Lake Road, the chamber was told this week that Cherry Point Road was resurfaced recently.

"This is the second time its been hard-surfaced. If they haven't got any money, how can they do that?" asked Bert Gray, chamber member.

President Dave Williams said the chamber likely would get the answer when and if it is able to arrange a meeting with the premier to discuss the Cowichan Lake Road improvements.

NANAIMO (CP)—Two former local Chinese residents who now live in New York have sent a cheque of $50 to swell total collections for the victims of the Sept. 30 Chinatown fire.

"We feel that Nanaimo is still our birthplace and our home and these homeless are still our people. Would like to help as best we are able," they wrote.

Winners in the 4-H Club public speaking contest of the Malahat South Council are Ward Bishop, 18, of the Saanich 4-H Holstein Club and Cheryl Moyer, 14, of the North Saanich 4-H Goat Club.

They won in the senior and junior divisions after a series of preliminary contests. Runners-up, respectively, were: Heather Thomas, 17, representing the Luxton Poultry Club, and Jean Money of the South Saanich Goat Club.

Finals were held in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric building Wednesday.

Trophies were awarded by the Victoria Kiwanis Club. Judges were Allen Wilson, president of the Jaycees; Dr. Lucille Wilson, assistant pathologist, Royal Jubilee Hospital, and Norman Putman, field crops commissioner, provincial agriculture department.

DUNCAN—The city of Duncan is drawing up a bylaw to regulate parking in the new city parking lot. Mayor Jack Dobson told Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce this week.

Answering criticism of overparking by some store employees, the mayor said the bylaw would put a time limit on parking.

"We know that some people are using the lot all day, and some of these are the merchants themselves. Council feels that the lot should be for shoppers, and the new bylaw will be designed to cater specifically to this group.

NANAIMO—Police here have discounted amnesia or foul play as reasons for the disappearance Sept. 24 of Len Quickenden, 57, employee at Pacific Biological Station.

Quickenden left his home at 7:30 p.m. to go shopping, and his locked car was found later near a ferry dock. He was reported by police as "very stable," but had been under the care of a doctor for severe and repeated headaches.

DUNCAN—There is a "tremendous demand right now" on Vancouver Island for good commercial sheep, according to William Evans, secretary of the B.C. Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association.

He told directors of Cowichan Agricultural Society here that buyers at one time always went to Salt Spring Island for sheep, but that recently Salt Spring breeders had been shopping in Cowichan for flock replacements.

"Some 200 ewes have been sold to Salt Spring," he said. "There are just no sheep to be had right now because of this unusual demand. The market for registered sheep also is good, and we have a great many letters from the United States asking for breeding stock."

Annual B.C.-bred ewe sale will be held at Abbotsford Nov. 7, he said.

NANAIMO—A suggestion by Nanaimo Alberni district labor federations that locals of the newly-formed B.C. Federation of Unemployed be set up throughout the province has been rejected by federation secretary Pat O'Neal.

He said committees would be set up in local areas, but actual locals would make it difficult for the federation to function.

NANAIMO—James Anthony Dickenson, 22, a Kelsey Bay logger, was charged here Wednesday with theft of liquor, tobacco, and other goods from the Canadian Legion Sunday.

HUNTER PANIC-STRICKEN

4 Shots Needed To Kill Grizzly

NANAIMO (CP)—With the mouth of an angry 1,000-pound silvertip grizzly a scant two feet from him, a terror-stricken hunter managed to fire a shot that knocked the bear over.

Harold Jorgenson told his story here Wednesday of a battle to the death with the bear in the Horsefly district, 65 miles from Williams Lake, 200 miles northeast of Vancouver.

He said he came upon the seven-foot animal in a small clearing after he had split from the rest of his hunting party.

The bear first walked away then wheeled and charged from about 30 feet. Mr. Jorgenson said he aimed a shot between the bear's eyes but it kept coming. Mr. Jorgenson ran into dense bush with the bear in close pursuit.

"The bear ran past me with in five feet then swung back. I fired again and he just went up on his hind legs and kept coming. I fired a third time and by then he had reached me."

"He knocked the rifle back into my shoulder, wounding my hand and knocking me over," Mr. Jorgenson said.

With the bear's mouth two feet away he raised his rifle and fired. The bear fell as the hunter rolled away. Mr. Jorgenson fired again and again.

"I was screaming by this time and ran away to reload my last three shots which were in my pocket."

The bear, however, died before they were needed.

Meet City's 'Mr. Credit Union'

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

"... the observance of International Credit Union Day (Oct. 20) calls attention to the work of the credit union movement in encouraging personal independence through self-discipline and wise management of resources."

"... the credit union idea—with its inherent philosophy of individual initiative and economic democracy—is helping to bring people together in a spirit of mutual co-operation."

Statements like the above are made once a year by people like President Eisenhower. That doesn't lessen their importance or significance.

In Victoria people like Hal Malone, Frank Greenway speak and live this philosophy every day of every year. Greenway is "Mr. Credit Union" to 46,000 members in 33 Greater Victoria unions. Officially he's the secretary of the Greater Victoria Savings Credit Union.

Do credit unions achieve the accomplishments Eisenhower referred to? Does the spirit of mutual co-operation prevail?

"Let's take a look at the files," said Mr. Greenway. He rifled through some papers.

"Here's one. Back in 1951 a young fellow—charter member of our credit union—came to us."

"I won't tell you his name. He was in his 30s, married and with five children. They all lived in a tarpaper shack. Four rooms and bath."

"The rent wasn't high—$25 a month. But he wanted something better. He couldn't get money from the usual sources to build—he only made $240 a month as a maintenance man."

"We gave him $8,000. We didn't give it to him really. We paid his bills in stages and arranged monthly payments he could meet."

Greenway stopped. "The thing I remember most about this one," he said, "is the help he received from other credit union members. They knew he was stretched thin even with $8,000. So they helped him. He built most of the place himself, but they did a lot of work, strictly on their own. Today he has a home worth $12,000 at least. He also has a lesson in the spirit of the credit union movement."

One phase of credit unions of which Frank Greenway is quietly proud is the school credit union system in Greater Victoria.

Begun three years ago in four parochial schools, St. Louis, St. Ann's, Sacred Heart and St. Patrick, the movement has grown even faster than Jack and the beanstalk.

Today 636 little people have assets of $7,296. Most of it comes in pennies, nickels and dimes rather than in big bills from daddy's wallet.

Last year the schools, functioning under Perpetual Help Credit Union, won a trophy for growth (in members and dollars) in a province-wide competition.

Apart from other considerations, credit unions stand alone in another way.

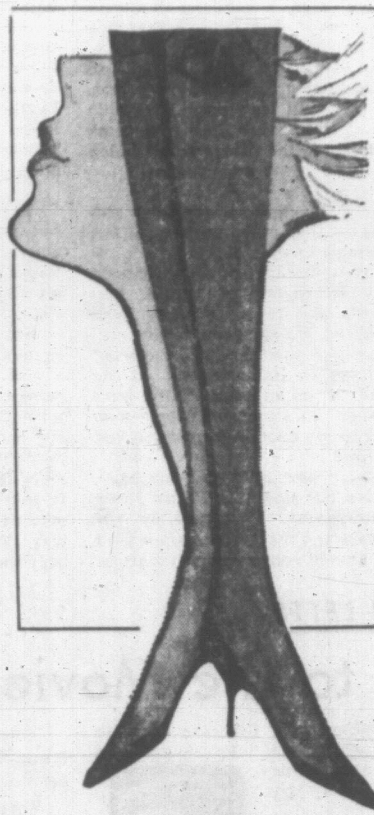

In the last 10 years, Greenway's group has loaned $2,500,000. It's bad debts have totalled

Or the fact that people are basically honest. Greenway and his assistant, F. T. S. Sehl, like to think it happens that way because credit unions judge people "not only on their personal financial resources but on their human resources."

Jack Likes Job

McCartan Shines As Rangers Snap Four-Game Skid

(By Canadian Press)
New York Rangers gave goalie Jack McCartan another chance to prove he belongs in the National Hockey League Wednesday night and the 1960 Olympic hockey hero passed the test with flying colors.

McCartan, whose brilliant goaltending led the United States to the Olympic hockey championship last February, stepped into the Rangers' net for the first time this season, handled 19 shots flawlessly and blanked Chicago Black Hawks 2-0.

It was Chicago's first defeat of the season and left the club in second place in the league standings, one point behind the first-place Montreal Canadiens who also lost 3-1 to the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

The NHL's sharpshooters may still catch up with McCartan but after five games—four at the end of the 1959-1960 season—a coach couldn't ask more from a rookie goaltender who never played in hockey's minor professional leagues.

ONLY SEVEN GOALS

He gave up only seven goals in the four games he played last season. New York won one of them, tied two and lost the other.

McCartan got a chance to play in Wednesday's penalty-field game in New York after regular goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley allowed 15 goals in two games.

The 8,506 fans who attended the game at Madison Square Garden saw something else to remember—a wild third-period brawl that resulted in the ejection of Black Hawk rookie Reggie Fleming.

Fleming was given three major penalties, the third one calling for a game misconduct. He also collected a minor penalty for cross-checking, making a total of 27 minutes in penalties for the night.

The 27 minutes was only three shy of the league record established by Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings in a game against Toronto Maple Leafs Oct. 12, 1952, at Detroit.

In that game, Lindsay received two majors, one misconduct and one game misconduct.

TANGLES WITH THREE

Fleming got his first major in the second period when he tangled with Dean Prentice. At 4:40 of the third period he squared off with Eddie Shack and then with John Hanna, receiving major penalties on both counts.

During the third-period melee McCartan suffered a gash under the chin that required five stitches to close.

Altogether, referee Dalton McArthur assessed 74 minutes in penalties during the game. Shack had an abrasion on one of his fingers to show for his scuffle with Fleming.

Prentice got the Rangers going midway through the first period, slamming home his own rebound while the Black Hawks were short-handed. It was his first goal of the season.

Andy Hebenton scored the Rangers' second goal in the second period, beating goalie Glenn Hall with a 25-footer after Camille Henry set up the play by stealing the puck from a Chicago player.

JOIN TORONTO

The win broke a New York four-game losing streak and lifted the Rangers into a third-place tie with Toronto.

The Maple Leafs outplayed the Canadiens for most of the 60 minutes, only brilliant goaltending by Montreal's Jacques Plante kept the score respectable for the visitors.

Plante was forced to make 35 saves while Leafs' Johnny Bower made 24.

Gerry Ehman, Bob Pulford and rookie Bob Nevin took care of Toronto's scoring—each getting his first goal of the season. Henri Richard scored for Montreal.

TOKYO—Flash Pano, 128, Philippines knocked out Goro Takayasu, 126, Japan.

It's Official: Houk Picks Up Yankee Reins

(Times News Services)

NEW YORK — Ralph Houk, a war hero who never rose higher in the major leagues than third-string catcher, today was named to succeed Casey Stengel as manager of the New York Yankees.

Houk, a coach under Stengel for the past three years, received a one-year contract for a salary estimated between $25,000 and $30,000, as compared to the $85,000 salary Stengel received for each of the past two years.

The announcement of the 41-year-old Houk's appointment was made by Yankee president Dan Topping, who said that the contract was for one year "at Houk's own request."

NO INTERFERENCE

"I wish to make it plain there will be no interference from the front office," Topping said.

Houk became the eighth

Miners Maul Calgary Colts

CALGARY (CP)—Drumheller Miners, led by Alec Akinum with three touchdowns, trounced Calgary Colts 52-0 Wednesday night in the first game of a two-game, total-point final for the Alberta intermediate football championship.

Second game is scheduled for Drumheller, October 30, but it was reported there was some doubt it would be played.

The winner of the Alberta title will meet either Victoria Drakes or Vancouver Grizzlies, in British Columbia, November 5, for the British Columbia-Alberta intermediate championship, with the victors advancing to the Western final.

In Wednesday night's game, former professional Sugarfoot Anderson racked up two of Drumheller's touchdowns and others were added by Jerry Bereth, Gerry Kerhan and Huey Simpson. Bill Mooney kicked four converts.

manager in the modern history of the club (since 1921) and the 16th manager since the original Highlanders were organized in 1903.

Said Houk: "I realize the tremendous job I have and feel very fortunate in being named to this job."

Stengel wasn't present at the conference.

MORE CHANGES COMING

No announcement was made on the expected reorganization of the Yankee front office. George Weiss, 65, is slated to retire as general manager and step upstairs as chairman of the board of directors.

He will be replaced by Roy Hamer, 58, a long-time Yankee career man who defected briefly to the National League. Jack White, former Yankee ticket manager, is expected to be named assistant general manager.

Houk said he would retain Ed Lopat and Frank Crosetti on the coaching staff and name a third member later.

BROKE EVEN

Houk's major league managerial "career" consists of 12 games during which he ran the team while Stengel was sick this season. He quickly demonstrated his "take-charge" qualities by putting catcher Johnny Blanchard and third-baseman Cletis Boyer in the lineup.

The team won six and lost six under his leadership, but bringing Blanchard and Boyer to the fore was considered an important move in the Yankees' ultimate pennant victory.

During World War II, Houk rose from a private to a major in the Rangers and fought with tremendous courage at such places as Bastogne, the Bulge and the Remagen Bridge.

CASEY'S FAREWELL: 'Youth Movement Is for the Kids'

NEW YORK (AP)—Today the Yankees named a new manager—41-year-old Ralph Houk. But never to be forgotten will be the old manager, Casey Stengel, the old man the Yankees dismissed to make room for the younger man in line with the club's new policy—the youth movement.

"The youth movement of America is for kids," blared old man Stengel in an acceptance speech Wednesday night climaxing an emotional evening during which he was given a farewell dinner party by the New York baseball writers.

"Sure I'm old," 70-year-old Stengel challenged an audience that included 48-year-old Yankee owner Dan Topping, the man who fired him; 65-year-old George Weiss, the general manager who will be the next man to be forfeited under the new "youth program" policy of the owners; 58-year-old Roy Hamer, who is scheduled to succeed Weiss, and 79-year-old Branch Rickey, president of the dormant Continental League.

STENGEL STARTED IT
"But I thought I could build a young team. I thought I could advance skill and youth without waiting years. Don't forget, it was I who started the Yankee youth program which saved the club three-four years by instructional schools in the winter. I got the youths to play baseball instead of ice skating in the winter."

All this, of course, was a pointed reference to the reason given by the Yankee ownership for his dismissal Tuesday—that Casey was too old to continue as manager.

Earlier, Topping had been among the dozens of notables who had paid tribute to the most successful manager in baseball.

"This has been the toughest decision (firing Stengel) the Yankees have had to make in all my years with the organization," Topping said. "We were ridiculed when we hired him back in 1948 and we're being ridiculed today 12 years later. Maybe he is as wonderful as people say he is."

LOYAL TO OWNERS
Referring to the Yankees' new setup, Stengel said: "I've always been loyal to the owners wherever I worked but I doubt if I could get along with owners who want to make me do things their way."

"I'm still working for the Yankees, you know, until Nov. 1. I purposely put in the date so I can get my 150 goes," he was referring to the $160,000 he is to get as his share of the club's profit-sharing plan.

O'Casey also gave a hint to his future.

"They never fail to hire a man who's got it, regardless of age."

Runnels 68, Skowron 65 and Aaron 5.

The rest of the second team, in addition to Sievers and Fox: third base, Brooks Robinson, Orioles (60 votes); shortstop, Dick Groat, Pirates (68); outfield, Roberto Clemente, Pirates (54), Minnie Minoso, White Sox (46) and Ted Williams, Red Sox (36); catcher, Yogi Berra, Yanks (39); left-handed pitcher, Whitey Ford, Yanks (32); and right-handed pitcher, Ernie Broglio, Cards (28).

Warriors to See If Road Is Bumpy

Riggin Brilliant In Flyer Victory Over Stampeders

It's still too early to prove anything, but Winnipeg Warriors have shown signs that they'll be a handful on home ice.

Now they're ready to see what they can do on the road. Warriors pulled out from the Manitoba capital, sharing the early lead in the Western Hockey League, for their first swing through the coast section of the eight-team circuit.

OPEN IN VANCOUVER

The six-game tour opens in Vancouver Friday and continues in Victoria on Saturday night.

Led by captain Nick Mickoski's two-goal performance, Warriors defeated Portland Buckaroos 4-1 Wednesday night in their second meeting, played before an estimated 1,500 fans. Winnipeg also defeated Portland Monday by a 6-2 count.

Mickoski, veteran National and American League forward, scored the first goal of the game and the winner, late in the second period.

Gerry Brisson and Howie Hughes scored the other Winnipeg goals, while Gord Harworth counted the lone Portland goal to ruin Harry Lumley's shutout bid early in the game.

THIRD WIN

It was Warriors' third victory in five games this season, four of the games at home. Portland has played only the two games against Winnipeg.

The two clubs were tied 1-1 in the first period, while Winnipeg fired two unanswered goals in the second and counted the only marker of the final period.

A rising 30-foot shot by Chuck Holmes early in the third period provided Edmonton Flyers with a 2-1 triumph over Calgary Stampeders before 3,319 fans.

The win put Edmonton in a first place tie with Warriors but Flyers have played one less game than Winnipeg.

RIGGIN GREAT

Holmes' shot decided a spectacular goaltending duel by Edmonton's Dennis Riggin and Lucien Dechene of Calgary, making his first start of the 1960-61 season. Riggin blocked 38 shots to 21 by Dechene, 17 of them in the second period when Dechene was called upon to block only two.

Don Poile put Edmonton in front midway through the first period and Ron Leopold tied it for Calgary by banking a shot off Riggin's pads early in the third.

ROBUST ROOKIES

Calgary defenceman Ed Van Impe and Edmonton forward Bruce MacGregor, a pair of highly-regarded rookies, enlivened the third period with a fistie session that resulted in a minor and a major for each. Van Impe was banished for two minutes for roughing with Len Haley early in the first period.

Gord Labossiere added one point to his league-leading total, setting up Holmes for the winner. Bob Solinger stayed in second place by drawing an assist on Poile's tally from a scramble in front of the net.

Edmonton coach Bud MacPherson had indicated Solinger might not start, but sat out Bob Goebel instead. He said there was no significance to the change.

Par Competition To Mrs. Tribe

Uplands Golf Club's par competition Tuesday was won by Mrs. J. B. Tribe.

Mrs. G. D. Ball won the "B" division, one down, and Mrs. H. A. Lytleton topped "C" class, two up.

In a team match, Colwood defeated Uplands 18-12.

LOUIS MEETS SCHMELING

How the Years Mellow Men!

The hands joined behind Schmeling's back, and Louis, the former heavyweight champion, said: "Great to see you, Max. You haven't put on any weight."

Schmeling embraced Louis and said: "Nice to see you, too, Joe. You are looking great."

The applause of the crowd in a hotel ballroom drowned out these comments.

They met only a few miles from Yankee Stadium where Louis was kayoed by Schmeling on June 23, 1936, then

Piggott Agrees Cats Need Help

By ERNIE FEDORAK

Two wins in three starts would indicate that Victoria Cougars are off to a good start in this young Western Hockey League season.

But to suggest that the Cats are strong enough to go the rest of the way—and still glide above the 500 mark—would be to insult the judgment of fans who sat in on the first two home games, coach coach George Agar, owner Jim Piggott and to anyone else interested enough to follow the track of the Victoria Hockey Club.

Cougars still need help. Some may only suspect as much even though Cougars pulled out a pair of 3-2 victories at Memorial Arena.

But Agar and Piggott are well aware of it.

JIM KNOWS IT

That's a point that Piggott carried home with him when he returned to his Saskatoon home Wednesday.

"Jim admits we definitely need help," said Agar. "The team is off to a good start and sitting in a good spot. We know where we need help and we're going to try to do something about it soon. We don't want to spoil that good start."

"Something" was already accomplished Wednesday. Agar said right-winger Bill Swarbrick, who played only three games of his five-game trial, has been returned to Kelowna of the Okanagan Senior League.

LOADED ON RIGHT

"He can't help us at the moment because we're well-stocked with right-wingers. We can give him another look later or use him if an emergency occurs."

There is an outside chance that "something" else may be accomplished before Saturday night, when Cougars go after victory No. 3 at the Arena by playing host to Winnipeg Warriors.

"Toronto Maple Leafs are to send us a left winger before the weekend," said Agar. "At the moment, I don't know who he'll be or where he'll come from."

The winger to be sent to Cougars is part of the same deal that saw the National League team option centre Red Johansen to Victoria. In return Cougars are allowing Leafs to use one of the Victoria team's sponsorships for one year.

SPONSOR QUAKERS

Each pro club is allowed two sponsorships, but Cougars have only one sponsored club—Saskatoon Junior Quakers. It is just the means by which a pro club protects players in junior or juvenile ranks.

If the new left winger does not arrive in time for Saturday's game, Agar will again dress Jim Moro to go on a line with Jerry Goyer and Pat Ginnell.

Agar seemed confident that other deals may be made shortly. At the same time, he indicated that the team still hasn't given up on veterans Paul Masnick and Jack McLeod.

McLeod was purchased from Calgary Stampeders but balked at reporting to Victoria. Masnick has been holding out for what Agar terms "an NHL salary."

Victoria district women's 15-and-under medal competition Tuesday was won by Mrs. Shirley Naysmith with a low gross of 88 at Colwood. Low net winners were Mrs. A. Dowell, 93-17-76, and Mrs. F. Skillings, 91-14-77.

They Come and Go To Warrior Camp

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League Wednesday released four players and added another to their camp.

Dropped were defencemen Lew Mueller and Bob Blackburn and forwards Marcel Rochon and Laurie Langrell. The late arrival was Al Baty, a forward who played with the 1958 Memorial Cup champion Winnipeg Braves.

Mueller, a graduate of Winnipeg junior circles, will possibly catch on with an International League entry.

Blackburn returned to Providence Reds of the American League, Rochon joined Minneapolis of the IHL and Langrell went to St. Paul, also in the IHL.

Coach Bill Robinson said he has no immediate plans for using Baty in the club's West Coast tour, which begins Friday in Vancouver. He said, however, he plans to switch the leftwinger to a right-wing slot.

SPAHN TOPS BALLOTING

The Tribe's Laden With Talent

NEW YORK (AP)—Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves, a 20-game winner for the 11th time, topped the balloting for the 1960 Associated Press major league all-star team selected today. Of the 192 baseball writers taking part in the annual poll, 188 named Spahn as the best left-handed pitcher. The Braves dominated the voting with third baseman Eddie Mathews, outfielder Hank Aaron and catcher Del

Crandall also named to the squad.

Others chosen were first baseman Bill Skowron and outfielder Roger Maris of New York Yankees, second baseman Pete Runnels of Boston Red Sox, shortstop Ernie Banks of Chicago Cubs, outfielder Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants and right-handed Pitcher Vernon Law of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Only four players repeated from last year's squad—Mathews, Banks, Mays and Aaron.

The balloting for second base honors produced the closest vote. Runnels polled 68 votes, Nellie Fox of Chicago White Sox 60 and Bill Mazeroski 56. Another tight race was for first baseman with Skowron edging Roy Sievers of the White Sox, 65 to 53.

Mays was the second highest vote-getter with 182. Law was next with 144 and then came Maris with 132. Banks had 111, Crandall 104, Mathews 83,

She's certainly an erratic bowler; one time her news is very dull and the next time she'll come through with the "juiciest bit in town!"

'Gambler's' Pays Earn Fans' Praise

VANCOUVER — British Columbia Lions are preparing for a record crowd at Saturday's Western Interprovincial Football Union game in Empire Stadium, and in some ways they can thank a young quarterback whose gridiron by a flair for the unusual.

He is Jim Walden, who showed Randy Duncan in the role of second-stringer while sparking Lions in their search for a playoff spot.

Lions have asked the Pacific National Exhibition to increase the seating capacity of Empire Stadium to 36,000 for the game that is a must for both Lions and Calgary Stampede.

The Canadian record attendance for a league game was set here August 31, 1959, when 34,273 fans watched British Columbia defeat Edmonton Eskimos 8-7. The all-time record is 39,319 for the 1955 Grey Cup game.

BIG ADVANCE SALE

With advance sales for the game already at 27,000, Lions general manager Herb Capozzi said Wednesday "It looks as if we will have another record."

Saturday will be the last game of the season for Calgary and they must defeat the Lions if they are to hold the third and last playoff spot. British Columbia must win this game and one against Saskatchewan to enter the playoffs.

And there is no doubt that much of Lions' hopes ride with Walden, a 22-year-old right-hander who once quarterbacked an entire game with his left hand because of an injured right shoulder.

HIS TRADEMARK

Coming up with the unexpected has been Walden's trademark since he first started playing football.

With 15 scholarship offers from larger colleges, the native of Aberdeen, Miss., left the south to accept a bid by Wyoming because it was the only university that would give a scholarship to an undersized guard who was his friend.

Walden's natural ability and his capacity for generating excitement have made him a favorite in football-mad Vancouver.

DRAWL HURT

With the Lions, he probably became the first player ever to pave the way for a penalty with his southern drawl.

It happened in one of his first games after replacing Duncan, the Iowa ace, as first-string quarterback.

Coach Wayne Robinson sent Tommy Hinton, another southerner, from the bench with a play. Hinton drawled it out to Walden who called it in the huddle.

It was to be a swing-pass to the four-back. Backfield positions are designated by numbers.

"Sure, but which one?" said fullback Don Vico who thought Walden had said full-back.

The play was called by Walden again. Vico repeated his question and by this time the referee was walking past the huddle, marking off a penalty for delay of the game.

Mixed Event At Gorge Club

Mrs. E. Groome and long-hitting Watson Finley will step out to defend the Hill Trophy in a mixed foursome competition at Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday.

The defending champions head a list of 24 pairings entered in the event.

'You're Greedy' Trustees Say; 'Paying Cheap' Teachers Reply

Greater Victoria school trustees Wednesday night accused teachers of being greedy for asking an almost 12 per cent salary increase this year.

The teachers shot back that the board was trying to pay cheap for quality.

The tough talk between salary negotiating teams on the wage requests lasted an hour and wound up in a deadlock.

Negotiations chairman for the school board, Kenneth Leeming, opened the sometimes bitter exchange.

Support Claimed
He said trustees consider the request "outrageous and avaricious."

"This view is supported by all editorials and letters to the press to date and undoubtedly will receive further support from the public who, after all, will bear the cost of any increase."

Trustee Leeming said all factors indicated the economy was in a "down-swing" with large numbers of persons out of work.

He said the recent British Columbia trustees' convention unanimously agreed that no increase in teachers' salaries were justified this year.

Highest Quality
V. M. R. Sewell, chairman of the teachers' committee, countered that Greater Victoria's teaching staff is the most highly qualified in the province yet its salary scale ranks from 40th to 46th in various categories even after an arbitration award of 9 per cent last year.

"Although our relative situation has improved, we are still not, by far, the leading district salarywise," he said.

At present 52 per cent of Greater Victoria's teachers have full university degree qualifications and 57 per cent of the high school teachers have the highest qualifications recognized by the department of education.

Results Effective
"This district has the highest percentage of teachers with these qualifications of any district in B.C.," he said.

"This policy of having highly qualified teachers has paid good dividends, in that Victoria students have won seven of the last 10 Governor-General's Gold Medals.

"To continue this level of achievement it will be necessary to keep the best teachers and to draw the best teachers to Victoria."

School board chairman W. G. Gelling said the board wanted the best teachers it could get but "I don't think in all fairness... that we should look for all the good teachers to come to Victoria."

Mr. Sewell replied angrily that, as a taxpayer and parent, "I rather resent your attitude as a trustee. I think we should have a good education system here."

Give Both Sides
Trustee Leeming hotly attacked the "unfairness" of a teachers' contention that they did without a salary increase when other districts granted substantial raises.

"You say you didn't get any increase in 1959. Well, you got two in 1958. Why don't you give that side of the picture?"

Mrs. Hazel Hodson, a teachers' representative, said Mr. Leeming was confused.

"You're getting a year ahead of yourself. We didn't get any increases in 1958."

Mr. Leeming later said Victoria was an attractive place to live and teachers like it, "so consequently they are prepared to take a moderately reduced salary from the maximum."

Since the negotiations began, he added, "I haven't found one person who wants to increase teachers' salaries even $1 more."

"Neither did they when my salary was $1,000 a year," replied teachers' representative John Robertson.

Indecent Assault Offender to Post Probation Bond

Aaron Anselm O'Brien of Victoria was given suspended sentence in B.C. Assize Court Wednesday on a charge of indecent assault on a 12-year-old girl on Broad Street last May.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane said O'Brien would be released under bond of $500 with orders to keep the peace, be of good behavior, report regularly to the provincial probation officer, obey his instructions and abstain completely from hard liquor.

Typhoon Sinks Ship
TOKYO (AP)—Mountainous waves churned up by typhoon Mamie overturned and sank a 650-ton freighter Wednesday off Kochi, a port on Shikoku Island, 450 miles southwest of Tokyo. The Maritime Safety Board said four crew members were rescued and nine others were missing.

LIBERALS have named Walter L. Gordon, above, who headed the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, as chairman of the policy committee of the national rally to be held in Ottawa Jan. 9-11. Named as chairman of the political organization committee was Francis Nobert of Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Be Honest Leaders Told

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI)—New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud said Wednesday that world leaders have failed to be honest with themselves on the issue of recognition of Communist China within the United Nations.

Delivering the address at the fall convocation of the University of New Brunswick, Robichaud said Communist China is a nation whose good or bad intentions could well mean life or death to the rest of the world.

KEEP BCE OUT, STRACHAN WARNS

Columbia Pact Greeted; Boost for Public Power

CCF leader Robert Strachan hailed the Columbia hydro agreement as vindicating his party's contention that cheap power can be produced under public ownership.

Mr. Strachan said the public must now be assured that it will reap the full benefit of such power.

"We must now take steps to ensure that the distribution of such power is not left in the hands of the B.C. Electric Co.," he said.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday Columbia power will be available at the B.C. border for 4 mills.

SIX-MILL TOTAL
Transmission to such centres as Vancouver would boost it by perhaps as much as 2 more mills. B.C. Electric power is now available at 6 mills in Vancouver. No firm figure has been presented by promoters of Peace River hydro power. A rates study has just been completed for presentation to the Public Utilities Commission. It has not been made public.

Mr. Strachan also warned that Columbia power might be swallowed in a province-wide pool of power from Peace and other facilities.

"We must ensure that the benefits of this public power are not lost by an attempt by Wenner-Gren (Peace promoters) and the B.C. Electric to pool and export public and private power as being the only means whereby the Wenner-Gren promoters can make millions from stock promotion," he said.

Power Must Be Used Economically

Some of the vagaries of power boat operation, either outboard or inboard, might be explained if, considered in the light of a thing called propulsion efficiency.

This quality is most important to the boat owner, since it affects his pocketbook sufficiently to make the difference between boating and not boating, but in addition it is one of the deciding factors as to whether the owner is satisfied with his outfit.

Conversion to Thrust

It is defined as the measure of the amount of horsepower developed by the engine that is converted into thrust to push the boat through the water, at a given speed. A boat that can be driven at a certain speed by a 50-horsepower engine, with a propulsion efficiency of 50 per cent, could be driven at the same speed with a 25 horsepower engine, if the propulsion efficiency was 100 per cent.

In the latter case, all of the engine power is being converted into thrust; while, in the former, only half of the engine power becomes thrust.

Since a 25-horsepower engine costs a lot less than a big 50-horsepower job, and burns half as much gasoline and oil, the desirability of high propulsion efficiency is very obvious.

No mechanical device that changes energy from one form to another ever achieves an efficiency of 100 per cent. Propulsion efficiencies of 75 per cent have, by careful engineering, been obtained, but an efficiency of 35 per cent is considered good. An efficiency of 35 per cent is bad; but is not unusual where proper consideration of the propulsion system is neglected.

Correct Speed Needed

The highest propulsion efficiency is obtained at some specific boat speed. Any deviation from this speed using the full power output of the engine means reduced propulsion efficiency.

Some outboard motors are now designed to reach their maximum propulsion efficiency at boat speeds of 40 miles per hour. There are many boats that are not designed to operate safely at such speeds.

To obtain good propulsion efficiency requires the best selection of several factors. Among these are propeller speed in relation to boat speed. Slower speed craft require a large propeller turning at comparatively slow speed.

This cannot be achieved with an outboard motor, since they are limited as to propeller diameter and there is no choice of gear ratios to reduce propeller speed.

The inboard motor has the advantage of providing a wide variety of gear ratios and less restriction on propeller diameter. It therefore can be adapted to a wider variety of boat types without sacrificing propulsion efficiency.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas of Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Andrea Owensby, age 11, of Arden, N.C., for her question:

What Is a Breadfruit Tree?

Imagine being able to gather a loaf of bread from a tree. What's more, if you had a variety of these trees in your garden, they would yield their fruit in turn. You could gather bread all year round. Actually the fruit of the breadfruit tree is not in neatly sliced and packaged loaves. But it does have a crusty rind and the mealy pulp is very much like soft new bread.

Where in the world does this baker tree grow? On the tropical islands of the Pacific Ocean, both north and south of the equator, there are 40 varieties of the breadfruit tree. Some bring forth their fruit in January, some in July and others in all the months between. The tree itself is tall and stately. The sturdy trunk often stands bare and straight for 30 feet, then puts out wide, spreading branches. The huge, shiny leaves of lush evergreen are often a foot long. The breadfruit tree likes a warm, wet climate where the soil is well drained. It is grown from cuttings and some have grown successfully in the climate of the Florida Keys.

The fruit grows from short stubby stems, singly or in clusters of two or three. The baby fruit is a round, green bumpy ball. As it grows it turns brown. When ripe, the breadfruit is as big as your head and yellow in color. The rind is bumpy, rough and tough. The pulpy bread is inside around the core.

The breadfruit tastes best after baking or being dried in the sun. It is sometimes mixed with coconut milk to make a delicious, starchy pudding. The islanders also cut the almost-ripe pulp into thin slices and roast it on hot stones.

Can Be Roasted Whole

Another recipe calls for roasting the breadfruit whole. The almost-ripened fruits are placed in a deep-pit of hot ashes. Breadfruit can also be stored. Baked slices may be buried and allowed to ferment. The baked slices may also be pounded into flour and stored for several weeks. On the Pacific Islands, the people depend on breadfruit for their starchy foods, much as we depend upon our cereal grains.

The usefulness of the breadfruit tree does not stop with its fruit. The tall trunk stands from 40 to 60 feet high and the wood is of a fine quality. When properly seasoned, it is very like hard, fine-grained mahogany. The islanders use this hardwood to make boats and some of it is used in the making of fine furniture. Under the outer bark of the tree there is a padding of stringy, fibrous tissue. This is used in the making of cloth.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Jack Seaman, age 10, of Montoursville, Penna., for his question:

How do bees select a queen?

Each summer, the worker bees decide to feed a few bee babies on a special formula. These little white grubs are given royal jelly, the food prepared especially for the queen mother herself. These pampered babies are given bigger cradles, larger than the six-sided cells in which the other bee babies are brought up. This treatment causes these special babies to become queen bees. The little princesses come forth 16 days after the eggs are laid and at first no one pays much attention to them.

If two of the princesses meet, they fight to the death. One of them may even attack the queen mother of the hive. But more likely, the old mother has already left and taken with her a host of loyal workers to start a new hive. The strongest young queen grows and becomes the queen of the new hive.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

EDDIE FISHER ... try and stop me

NEW YORK—For those who still like Eddie Fisher and still care for his singing — there may be some joy in the word from him personally that he isn't going to put his vocal cords away on the shelf and quit.

This had been broadcast as his decision, and he had reportedly declared that "singing has never brought me anything but headaches."

I caught Eddie as he was hopping back to London, after becoming Liz Taylor's producer. He denied the tale entirely.

"I'll be singing commercially and uncommercially as long as I live and I'd like to see anybody stop me," he said.

However, it appears that Eddie won't be appearing at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas this year, due to his new plans. He'll be going to Russia and Israel on business as a producer.

Glad the baseball madness is over? Joy Harmon, the beauty on Groucho Marx's show, while at a game with her boyfriend, said, "You keep telling me Yogi Berra's such a great catcher. If he's such a great catcher, what's he doing up there batting?"

Joe E. Lewis took a drink from a table at the Copa, poured water into it from a pitcher, and said, "This is the only pitcher Casey Stengel didn't use."

MIDNIGHT EARL... The Duke and Duchess of Bedford (Nicole Millar of TV) will be the Milton Berles' house guests in Beverly Hills. . . Ethel Merman's most frequent escort is Eva Gabor's father-in-law, Saul Brown. . . Pitcher Harvey Haddix, winner of the Series clincher, had a horse named for him—"Harvey the Great"—by Pirates president John Galbreath. . . Frankie Lane and his wife Nan Gray—who's been retired for years—did a "Rawhide" TV'er together.

Buddy Rich sold his plush Manhattan duplex to Peggy Lee, will move back to Miami. . . Trombonist Lillian Briggs says Jerry Lewis signed her for his "Ladies Man" film "because I look like Dean Martin". . . Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford talked to horse owner Arthur Nardin about buying a trotter.

That's all, folks. We're really dressed to please their husbands, they'd do it a lot faster.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: (untrue of course) Kennedy to Nixon: "I am all for sending a man into space—but I understand you refuse to go."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Why can't life's problems hit us when we're 18 and know everything?

DIET NOTE: You're kept alive by a third of the food you eat. The other two-thirds keeps the doctors alive. That's earl, brother.

Branch Library Recommended At Shop Centre

Saanich will investigate the possibility of establishing a branch library at the $3,000,000 Douglas Street shopping centre now being developed by Dominion Construction Co. of Vancouver.

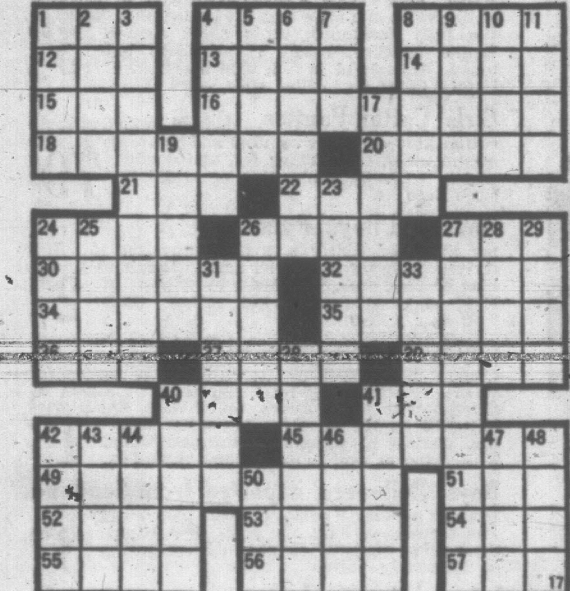

Coun. Gregory Cook at a meeting of the lands and planning committee Tuesday said the shopping centre situated immediately north of the Douglas Street-Trans-Canada Highway intersection, is an ideal location for a library.

At the suggestion of chairman Coun. Stanley Murphy, it was decided to discuss the matter with Victoria Public Library officials before submitting the proposal to council.

Pro-Communist Rebels Sign Laos Agreement

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—Pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels have signed an agreement to hand over control of the northeast province of Sam Neua to the neutralist government of Premier Souvanna Phouma, government sources said Wednesday. The agreement was reached at a brief meeting following week-long peace talks between the government and the Pathet Lao.

In one of the key battles of the three-sided Laotian civil war, the Pathet Lao took Sam Neua province from the forces of pro-Western rebel, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

TRAIN THIEVES ELUDE POLICE

KINGSEY, Que. (CP)—Provincial police today intensified a search for six armed bandits who took over a tiny railway station here Wednesday and robbed a CNR train of $3,100 when it pulled up to the platform.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Immigration Minister Fairclough arrived here Wednesday and began a two-day visit by announcing she has withdrawn deportation orders against three Chinese who said they entered Canada on false passports.

Mrs. Fairclough said she has ordered cancelled the orders against Tam Ping Chin, Josephine Chow and Thomas Chow, a brother of the Chow woman.

The three Chinese had testified they had paid for the pas-ports in a recent false passport trial. Found guilty of making false statements and on four conspiracy counts were lawyer George Edward Gordon, 56, and Sun Tong, 72, a retired barber.

Gordon was sentenced to one year in jail and Tong was jailed for six months and fined $5,000.

In announcing the withdrawal of the deportation orders, Mrs. Fairclough repeated the federal government's offer that any Chinese revealing the facts of illegal entry into Canada will not be deported.

Mrs. Fairclough explained that the department is not seeking to deport all those who have come into the country illegally from the Orient, but to get rid of the blackmail and blackmailers connected with the illegal entries.

"We've got a few of the ringleaders," she said when asked if the key personnel involved in the racket had been apprehended. She would not elaborate.

Police said he was found with a case of beer.

An award winning film, The Georgian Coffee Pot, together with slides will be shown at the monthly meeting, Victoria Amateur Movie Club, to be held in Norway House, Hillside Avenue, Monday, at 8 p.m.

A Victoria seaman is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today after suffering tar burns on his face, neck and hands.

Police said Jan Leentvaar, a seaman on the hydrographic survey vessel, William J. Stewart, suffered the burns at 8:30 this morning when a pot of hot tar tipped over.

Leentvaar and a fellow seaman were apparently working on the survey ship's wharf, 211 Harbor, when the pot tipped.

Carrying a loaded firearm with one shell in the breech and a full clip in reserve—in his car cost hunter David Leonard Johnson, 128 Wellington, a fine of $25 and $3 costs when he pleaded guilty to the charge in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday.

Someone in Victoria has a conscience worth $35.

That amount, in a plain envelope postmarked Victoria, B.C., Oct. 15, 4 p.m., has been received in Ottawa by the Department of Finance.

The money was addressed to "Chief Treasury Office, DVA, Ottawa, Canada."

Receipt of the "conscience money" was officially acknowledged today in a letter to the editor of the Times.

City finance committee today recommended that council put up $750 to build and transport a civic float for participation in the annual Grey Cup parade Nov. 26 in Vancouver.

Committee agreed that publicity value of the float would make the expense worthwhile.

"Our float last time was very well received by the crowd and on television," said controller-treasurer J. H. Bramley, recalling the Barron-type tea-drinking and tweedy models on the Victoria float.

Dr. Kaye Lamb, former provincial librarian and now national librarian and Dominion archivist, will address a public meeting at the City Library tonight at 8:15 on the topic "The National Library." The lecture is sponsored by the local organization, Friends of the Victoria Public Library.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS MEET

Price Squeeze Hits Farmer

Because farm machinery and equipment must be bought at "monopolistic" prices and farm commodities sold at competitive prices, the economic situation of the farmer does not improve, Dr. Joseph J. Richter, assistant professor of agricultural economics, University of B.C., said here today.

Man Wounded, 2 Charged In Pre-Dawn Saanich Fight

Drinking Party Visit to Neighbor Ends in Violence

Part-time truck driver James Turnbull, 31, of 919 Scotia, is in "satisfactory" condition with a shoulder wound while his brother and next-door neighbor face charges in Saanich police court following a pre-dawn shooting today.

Raymond Frederick Peterson, 30, of 927 Scotia, where the shooting occurred, was to appear this afternoon charged with assault by an offensive weapon with intent to cause bodily harm.

Dennis Turnbull, about 25, of 1256 Ryan, is charged with assault causing bodily harm to Peterson.

Turnbull was found collapsed and bleeding heavily from a .44 bullet wound, lying in the driveway at 927 Scotia, a block-long street one block north of Tolmie Avenue.

Police, who were on their way to the scene when the shooting occurred, took Turnbull to Jubilee Hospital in unconscious condition and the bullet was removed in an operation later this morning.

They seized for exhibits a .44 semi-automatic, army model hunting rifle, a blood-stained shirt and trousers.

Saanich Det. Robin Stewart said police were still investigating, but it appeared the shooting arose from a drinking party at Turnbull's home.

FOURTH MAN SOUGHT

They said a fourth man, believed to have been with the Turnbulls, was being sought.

Det. Stewart said the men went to Peterson's house at about 4:30 a.m., awakening Peterson and his wife, who is expecting a baby, and their three children.

Mrs. Peterson called police, the men went away, but returned before police arrived. Apparently Peterson had a rifle at his living-room window—a dormer type which opens outwards—and this is where the shooting is alleged to have taken place.

Mrs. Peterson said she, her husband and family had lived in their one-story home eight years and the Turnbulls moved next door about five months ago, to the only other house immediately adjoining on that side of Scotia.

CHILDREN AWAKENED

The early morning disturbance aroused the three Peterson children, Penny, eight; Brian, seven, and Wendy, two and a half.

"They (Turnbulls) came banging on the door and I woke up my husband," the mother said.

Mrs. Peterson said she was concerned for the children, who were wide awake, and Mr. Peterson, a longshoreman, who had to be at work early, was upset at being aroused.

He went to the living room window, which opens over the front steps, she said.

"Have you got any brew?" the men outside wanted to know. "I guess they had run out next door. But before my husband had time to say anything, they hit him," Mrs. Peterson claimed.

'GO PHONE POLICE'

"I didn't know they had hit him, then. He went out to the kitchen and got dressed. He got the gun and said 'Go phone the police, they've started again.' They were banging on the door, but my husband didn't open it."

When the rifle went off at least one man was struggling with Peterson at the window and someone else was banging on the front door, Mrs. Peterson said.

When it was over, someone took out the street, she said. The front door jamb was split for about 18 inches where the lock bolt fits.

ESQUIMALT NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

$90,000 TOPPED

First Home Collections 'Promising'

With the first returns from the residential campaign and payroll deduction plan beginning to come in, Greater Victoria Community Chest fund topped the $90,000 mark at noon today.

"First returns in the residential campaign are very promising," a Chest spokesman said.

Chest officials are hoping the fund will reach $100,000 by the end of the week. Campaign chairman, Bernard Van Aggelen, expressed the same hope last week. Failure, then, was blamed on canvassers not forwarding donations to the Chest immediately they were received.

TWO WEEKS REMAIN

There are just two weeks left for Victoria citizens and businesses to raise this year's goal of $350,000.

Saturday afternoon shoppers will be entertained this week by the band of HMCS Naden. The band will be giving a concert of light music and "pops" on the parking lot adjoining the Dominion Hotel, corner of Blanshard and Yates.

The concert is another in the series of Chest presentations to publicize the campaign.

The following Saturday will see a pony-express service between Sidney and Victoria. A team of horse riders will bring in Sidney's donations to the City Hall steps. It is hoped the amount will be enough to light up one of the $25,000 bulbs on the giant Red Feather at City Hall.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you list the years that the Dodgers won the world series and also the year they moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles? J.P.

World Series: In 1955 while still at Brooklyn they beat New York Yankees, 4-3, and in 1956 at Los Angeles they beat Chicago White Sox, 4-2. They also played in series in 1890, 1899, 1916, 1920, 1941, 1947, 1949, 1952, 1953 and 1956. They shifted their National League franchise to Los Angeles in 1957.

Q. What is an aspidistra, the sort Gracie Fields used to sing about? T.T.L.

A. It's a plant of the lily family, native of Himalaya, China and Japan. It is a favorite potted plant and bears long green or green and white-striped leaves. The plant will live in low light intensity such as an ordinary dwelling room.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Flowers Spring to Life In This Downtown Store

By PENNY SAVER

Popping into one downtown store this morning I was surprised to find two of its customers happily engaged in making realistic ribbon roses and other flowers. I was still more surprised to find that these creations were result of about half an hour's instruction!

Every Wednesday morning, starting at 10.30, and every Friday afternoon, beginning at 1.30, classes lasting about two hours are held. Instruction costs only 50 cents an hour. This provides a marvellous opportunity for women to get together, learn a fascinating hobby and make gifts that would please anyone.

Costs of materials are very small. Ribbon, in a variety of colors, sells at two yards for 15 cents, leaves are priced at 25 cents a dozen, stems at 10 cents a dozen and sufficient wire for two weeks' work costs 10 cents. Just the hobby for a tight budget!

Additional attraction at the Friday afternoon classes is instruction in making of fibre flowers and flower arrangements. Fibre is available in a rainbow of colors and is most inexpensive at 50 cents for a package of 50 sheets. Instructor showed me an arrangement of flowers—made in a wild rose design—that was positively breathtaking!

Flowers were in delicate shades of lime green and mauve and were arranged in a bowl with fern and pussy willow. Tiny butterflies had been made to perch on the odd creamy petal.

What equipment should you bring along to a lesson? Just a good pair of scissors and, of course, a box in which to proudly carry home the results of your labor! When you reach the stage where you're ready to make your first flower arrangement, bring an attractive bowl or planter.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today give her a ring at EV 3-3131.

United Church Wedding

Marriage of Nancy Benton, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Benton, Victoria, and Patrick Stephen McLoughlin, son of Mrs. Shirley McLoughlin of Courtenay, was solemnized at First United Church last Saturday, with Rev. A. I. Higgins officiating. Church was decorated with white 'mums' for the wedding. Soloist was Miss Kathleen Paulin and the organist, C. McNeil.

The bride was given away by an old family friend, Arthur Wiggins, Yorkton, Sask. Her princess-style gown was in ivory satin with full hooped skirt, bateau neckline and lily point sleeves. A veil of silk illusion misted from a seed pearl headress, and she carried gardenias and ivy.

Mrs. Ray Saunders, matron of honor for her sister, wore a dress of aqua peau de soie with matching velvet head-dress and shoes. She carried pink carnations.

Attending his brother was Paul McLoughlin, while Laurence St. Hillaire and Andrew Rittich were ushers.

A reception in the Thistle Room of Glenshiel Hotel, A. Wiggins topped the bride. Baskets of ferns and white chrysanthemums decorated the reception room.

For a honeymoon to the United States, Mrs. McLoughlin changed into a beige mohair suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of muted orange carnations.

Young couple will live at 1117A Bay Street upon their return.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Try to Make Legs Pretty—They're Prominent Now

The present styles make us seem to be all arms and legs! Skirts are shorter than ever. I imagine you have had the same experience I have had. My hemlines have been taken up three times, and in some instances four.

The grooming of legs is most important. No matter how lovely your leg contours are, superfluous hair or flaky skin showing through sheer stockings, can ruin the effect.

Shaving or a depilatory are the two most practical methods of removing the hair. My opinion is that cosmetic wax is too big a job over such large surfaces.

Either shaving or a depilatory is satisfactory. The depilatory has the advantage of leaving the hair ends less stubby because it melts the hairs rather than cuts them. For the same reason it may give you a little "closer" shave, although the difference is slight.

While there are many evening clothes with sleeves, some of the most attractive ones have extremely short sleeves or none at all. So upper arms will be in view also this winter. When necessary, the hair should be removed from the arms, although I do not think that so many women have this problem since the hair is usually sparse and fine.

Some women have extremely large upper arms.

arms which are out of proportion to the rest of the silhouette. Our glandular set-up dictates weight distribution and this condition is sometimes due to a low thyroid. Of course if you are overweight, a general reduction in poundage will reduce the arms, although they may still remain out of proportion unless exercise is used to speed the loss.

Flabby upper arms add up to one of the main beauty hazards with which the mid-

DEAR ABBY

In the Doghouse!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You goofed! How could you advise parents to get their small boy a miniature French poodle? Poodles are expensive to buy and only a millionaire can keep a poodle properly manicured and clipped. Also, you can't give an aristocrat like that table scraps unless you eat filet mignon and crepe suzette every night. What's wrong with a Boston Bull?

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd have told Mrs. J. L. T. that apartment dwellers have no business having dogs. A few goldfish or tropical fish would do just as well. I had puppies when I was a child and believe it or not, I learned about the birds and the bees from the fish.

"VARSITY"
DEAR ABBY: Anyone who knows anything about pets will tell you that the best pet in the world for a child is a dachshund. They are odorless, hairless, affectionate and sturdy. FRISKEY'S MASTER

DEAR ABBY: I hope Mrs. J. L. T. didn't take your advice and rush out to buy her 7-year-old son a miniature male poodle. A female (spayed, of course) would make a much better pet.

DEAR ABBY: I agree, every child should have a pet. But why a French poodle? Our boys had white mice. Their mice gave them much pleasure and there was no work involved for me. Mice cost nothing to feed, require no licence, never have to go to the vet's, and do not annoy their neighbors.

DEAR ABBY: For a couple of dollars and a trip to the dog pound, Mrs. J. L. T. can get a first-class pet. Yes, I mean an ordinary mongrel. We've never had anything else and when it comes to loyalty and companionship, I'll put one of those mutts against any pedigreed dog.

DEAR ABBY: I've raised and bred dogs all my life and, if I were to recommend the ideal dog for a child, I'd say get him a cocker spaniel, leagle or schnauzer. French poodles are too high-strung, noisy and ornery. Besides which, a small poodle is no animal for rough-housing.

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your advice to buy a miniature French poodle for a 7-year-old boy. That's a dog for a rich lady who has nothing to do but pamper a spoiled ball of fluff. Tell the parents to get the child an Airedale. It can take all the teasing, cuddling and mauling a small boy can dish out.

Ball Cancelled, No Debutantes This Season

Officials of the United Services Institute of Vancouver Island have announced that the annual ball of the institute, planned for November 11 in the Empress Hotel, has been cancelled.

In the past 10 years this ball has been coupled with presentation of the year's coteries of debutantes and there will no doubt be some disappointment amongst the young set that it has been cancelled.

Old Homes Must Eventually Be Replaced

Older residential areas of Greater Victoria are "generally of high standard" but there is "evidence of neglect of property which eventually turns to physical decay."

These old homes, many beyond repair, "must eventually be replaced," Brahms Wiesman, planning director of the Capital Region Planning Board told members of the University Women's Club, Wednesday evening.

In explanation of the need for regional planning the speaker said "cities cannot be allowed to grow willy-nilly, there should be some concern given for the form or pattern they take."

"Since urban population is rapidly increasing we must give thought to future development and we must try to avoid the 'suburban sprawl' which we so often hear about."

There should be control of speculative subdividing, Mr. Wiesman said, and large reservations of open space should be preserved for public use. "Pitifully little of our surrounding coastline is in public ownership," he said.

"Town planners' ultimate goal is the proper utilization of land and the improvement of residential developments," he concluded.

Mrs. H. R. Turner presided and membership convener, Mrs. A. H. Gunning presented the following new members: Mrs. J. H. Duxbury, Mrs. A. Fieldwalker, Mrs. D. S. Johal, Mrs. H. L. Keenlyside, Miss Bertha Rogers, Miss Joan Thomas, Mrs. C. G. Truscott, Mrs. G. E. Whelan and Mrs. Vincent Smith.

Mrs. L. D. Hall and Miss Beth Ramsay renewed former memberships. Refreshments were served by Mrs. T. G. Hatcher, assisted by Miss Muriel Knight, Mrs. H. Donaldson and Dr. Anne Underhill.

CS Will Ignore Labor Protest

B.C. civil servants refused Wednesday to join a labor protest against the government's decision to stop their dues checkoff.

A statement from the B.C. Government Employees Association was read at a meeting of Victoria Labor Council. It said the BCGEA would not join the council debate on the issue.

The statement said silence was not to imply either approval or disapproval.

VLC voted an official protest at "the deplorable action of the B.C. government." Dues checkoff for the BCGEA was halted by the government on the grounds that affiliation with the B.C. Federation of Labor implied a political connection.

The federation supports the CCF politically, but the BCGEA says it is non-partisan. VLC delegates said they feared the government move was the first such step against labor as a whole.

"It seems to me this will become the small end of the wedge. If it is legal it will face all our unions," said a delegate.

"It is like a couple of gangsters holding a man while another fellow kicks him," said another.

The BCGEA statement said: "We feel that because of the rather peculiar position that we find ourselves in, it is desirable to abstain from debate on this subject and that our silence should not imply agreement or disagreement with any decision made or opinion expressed."

The government is setting a pattern for employers to follow," said Mr. O'Neal.

"The government is trying to set the lead for management to make it more difficult for labor to remain financially solvent," said Mr. Neale.

CHECK-OFF CURB HIT BY LABOR

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two labor leaders Wednesday predicted employers will follow the example of the provincial government and launch a campaign to get rid of the dues check-off for unions.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and Paddy Neale, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council, said the provincial government's action in abolishing the dues check-off for the B.C. Government Employees' Association is the signal for renewed attacks on labor.

"The government is setting a pattern for employers to follow," said Mr. O'Neal.

"The government is trying to set the lead for management to make it more difficult for labor to remain financially solvent," said Mr. Neale.

'PUT GOVERNMENT AHEAD OF COURTS'

Gaglardi Appeals $1,000 Fine

VANCOUVER (CP)—Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi has appealed his conviction on a contempt of court charge and fine of $1,000.

He filed the appeal immediately after the decision was handed down in British Columbia Supreme Court, Wednesday afternoon, by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris.

Mr. Gaglardi paid the fine by writing a personal cheque.

United States contractor C. W. Thornton was also found guilty of the same charge and was sentenced to prison.

Mr. Justice Norris, in a strongly worded judgment, said the minister had placed the government ahead of the courts.

Mr. Gaglardi and Thornton were found guilty on charges brought by Burton Glazier, of Seattle, in January, in connection with a highways department payment to a contracting firm.

Thornton, who was ordered kept in prison until he pays $25,516 which the court found his firm owes Glazier, was expected to file an appeal today and seek release on bail.

Mr. Justice Norris said that Thornton was guilty of "wilful contempt" of an injunction granted October 29, 1959, by Mr. Justice Norris. Mr. Gaglardi was accused of aiding and abetting Thornton.

Thornton was treasurer and vice-president of Union Contractors, Limited, which had a contract for a highway project near Revelstoke, B.C., 300 miles northeast of here.

A creditor of Union Contractors, Mr. Glazier was granted an injunction restraining Mr. Thornton from receiving and dealing with money payable by the provincial highways department.

The contempt charges were brought by Mr. Glazier after a cheque from the highways department was sent to a bank at Bonners Ferry, Idaho, and used in payment of Union Contractors' indebtedness to the bank.

Mr. Justice Norris said Thornton and his company "stood to gain" as a result of the contempt.

"As for you, Gaglardi, your offence is an extremely serious one, but you did not personally gain in this and that is to the good," he added.

Mr. Justice Norris said he had taken into account that the highways minister had acted on legal advice in sending the cheque. But he criticized Mr. Gaglardi for acting on this advice "in face of a court order."

He said he found the minister guilty of "wilful contempt." The judge added that Mr. Gaglardi "permitted his subordinates to ignore the court order in favor of carrying out the 'practice and policy' of his department."

IRAN AWAITS ROYAL BIRTH

TEHRAN (AP)—Iran is anxiously awaiting a birth expected within the week to the Shah and Queen Farah.

The fervent hope is for a boy who can succeed to the Peacock Throne of this Moslem kingdom, where a girl has no place in the succession. The Shah's first two queens produced only one daughter.

Iran is making gaudy preparations to celebrate the birth. But the birth of a girl would disappoint the anxious Persians and festive celebrations probably would go less than the six days planned.

MACKENZIE KING RECORD

Conscription Issue Compromised

By J. W. PICKERSGILL
(13th of a Series)

The cabinet resumed on Jan. 5, 1942, discussion of the army program and the attitude to be taken to the conscription issue in Parliament.

Despite some objections, Mackenzie King felt "it was apparent that the cabinet was largely in favor of granting the extra armored division overseas provided it would not necessitate conscription."

"I have felt strongly that Ralston would resign if he did not get the extra armored division and that Angus Macdonald would follow his example. To lose Ralston and Macdonald at this stage would be to create a panic with respect to Canada's war effort. I believe the whole business can work out if given sufficient time."

Question to Cabinet

After a good deal of discussion, Mackenzie King asked if his colleagues "could not agree on letting Ralston have his program on... the understanding... that we believed conscription was unnecessary; that the program represented an all-out effort; that we believed this program could be carried out without resort to conscription."

He suggested that, to meet Ralston's position, he should be free to say that "he would reserve his right, if this proved not to be the case, to consider later what further steps might be necessary."

He also "pointed out that any member of the government could take this stand and preserve his own position. That if conscription became necessary, he could resign, being unwilling to support it; equally if he believed it to be necessary and the cabinet would not support conscription he would be free to resign. It would be some time before that question would arise. Meanwhile there might be great change in the world situation."

Compromise Settled

Mackenzie King finally got agreement on that basis.

From that day until the session began on Jan. 22, Mackenzie King wavered between the view that the conscription issue should be fought out in Parliament and the alternative that a referendum or plebiscite should be announced either before Parliament met or in the Speech from the Throne. The session of Parliament which had opened on Nov. 7, 1940, was prorogued on Jan. 21, 1942. The new session was to open on Jan. 22.

Mackenzie King began to feel, on Jan. 21, that it might be better to take out of the Speech from the Throne, to be read at the opening of the new session, the reference to the plebiscite and hold the matter "till we had discussed and explained the situation to the Quebec members, in this way consulting them in advance; also that that part of the Speech might be kept as a statement of government policy to be used as an amendment to any motion for conscription."

St. Laurent Got Hint

What prompted this was "St. Laurent telling me he had a 'phone call from Quebec saying they had seen what was suggested in the press, and that if the government took any plebiscite, they would likely put in an independent candidate against him (in the by-election in Quebec East set for Feb. 9)."

"Power had also said to me he thought the Conservatives would fight the referendum bitterly and it might be as well to face the conscription issue squarely."

"I felt, too, that the plebiscite, as proposed in the Speech, might be taken by anti-conscriptionists as not in accordance with the pledges made at the election, and that it might cause some of the following to feel that they would not be justified in trusting me... To have the whole matter reconsidered, I had the cabinet meet in my office after prorogation."

Decided on Policy

"We discussed the whole question from nine till half past eleven, all agreeing that what was said in the speech was definitely our policy, the discussion being the wisdom of presenting it to the caucus before putting it in the Speech."

"However, after going over all arguments again, particularly those that related to procedure in the House itself, it seemed best to let the Speech stand as it was (i.e., with the plebiscite mentioned), the point being that it was a definite statement of government policy, and any motion in the nature of conscription on the Address would be a negation of that policy and could be voted against by all, whether conscriptionist or anti-conscriptionist."

McNAUGHTON... wanted the best only

On Monday, Jan. 26, Mackenzie King replied to Hanson in the debate on the Address. The speech he delivered had been worked over almost daily for nearly a month. It was, in fact, a treatise on a total war effort. Mackenzie King was greatly pleased by its reception.

Ralston Easier

"During the speech," he added, "I was warmly applauded in the afternoon while reading the record. What pleased me most was that for the first time almost in weeks, Ralston seemed to ease up a bit, lose his tenseness. Indeed I had a feeling that he has been warding himself off very strongly against me in anticipation of my possibly saying things in the speech that might not suit his book."

When the results of the February 9 by-election began to come in, Mackenzie King "felt tremendously relieved and equally surprised to get this all-round report of Meighen's defeat (by Joseph Noseworthy) and three Liberal victories."

"This victory to be achieved at a time of the worst crisis of the war and when feeling was raised to a pitch higher than at any time, and the issue that of conscription!"

Hepburn Treachery

"But next to Meighen's defeat, its accomplishment was in large part due to the treacherous action on Hepburn's part going on to his platform, and also trying to organize the defeat of the federal Minister in Welland."

"There never was such treachery on the part of a Leader of a Government towards another. Government supposed to be of the same political stripe."

He added: "I felt tonight that public life in Canada had been cleansed, as though we had gone through a storm and got rid of something that was truly vile and bad, and which, had it been successful at this time, might have helped to destroy the effectiveness of our war effort. I felt most grateful to Providence for what Canada had been spared of division and strife."

General Acceptance

Meanwhile, the Plebiscite Bill had been introduced and Mackenzie King spoke on the second reading on February 25.

The next morning (February 26) he felt that discussion of the Bill was "proving to be a sort of educational process. We have kept out of Parliament and out of the arena of acrimonious conflict both in Parliament and in the country, a discussion of conscription."

"By the time the plebiscite is taken, the public generally will see the wisdom of giving the Government a free hand, and, by that time, events will have made so obviously clear the way in which the power of compulsory selective service should be exercised that the course to be taken will be fairly, if not wholly, obvious, and national support secured for it."

full duration of the war, it was a not entirely inaccurate forecast of the outcome of the conscription crisis of 1942.

(Gen. McNaughton came back to Canada for a period and held a number of conversations with Mackenzie King and the Cabinet.)

"I asked him quite frankly about my understanding of his future needs for men... he and his fellow officers at Headquarters had never really urged or wanted conscription."

ABBOTT... suggested broadcast

"What they were interested in was selective service—getting into the army the men best qualified, and getting into industry the men that could serve there. He continued to stress the need for more in the way of war equipment."

"I asked again if he was entirely satisfied with everything, and he said he was..."

Far From Satisfied

Mackenzie King had a talk on March 24 with D. C. Abbott (then private member for Montreal), who urged him to broadcast on the plebiscite before Easter "as he says nothing will rally Quebec except a positive statement from myself that I am anxious they should support the plebiscite." He made his first broadcast on the plebiscite on April 7 and was far from satisfied with the result. He was also greatly worried about the reaction in Quebec, where it was increasingly clear that no one wished to support the plebiscite.

"I felt however that the Tories will have their minds pretty well made up to vote 'yes.' Should any change to 'no' it will help to distribute the 'no's' more generally in the other provinces, and thereby not make Quebec quite so conspicuous."

Sooke	Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING  "Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality ma- terial for all applications where perfection is re- quired.  With its "grow-in" work- ability, weather resis- tance and lasting "good looks," "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Sid- ing has long been recog- nized as the standard of quality home construc- tion.  It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architec- tural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on in- door surfaces as well as exterior.  5 GRADES TO CHOOSE FROM!  "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING  WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?  Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 36 and 48-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knota birds, etc.  APPEARANCE?  For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing ap- pearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound resistant knota siding is sawn from 5-inch to 6-inch widths to 4-inch to 12-inch widths and to the rustic appearance of this grass.  WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?  "FOREST" siding, with its sub- stantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the struc- tural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which, together with its thickness and finish-to-base prin- ciple, makes excellent material from the INSULATION stand- point. "FOREST" siding represents an ECONOMY to home-builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.  HOW IS IT APPLIED?  As easily and quickly as com- mon shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.  HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?  If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood sur- face, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recom- mended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt where it will not show to stop formation of a vapor barrier. ## STRANGE MOLESTER BUSY

Don't Open Door
Police Warning"Don't open your door to strangers, especially at night," Chief John Blackstock warned housewives today as his department sought a stocky blond youth believed responsible for at least one assault and a half dozen complaints since Monday.Hubert Smith, 3024 Quadra, said Wednesday night he found his wife upset; her neck
"red as fire" after a struggle with a man who asked to use their bathroom Tuesday night.
He had been bringing household goods from a home the family had just vacated Saturday and came to their new address late Tuesday."When I got home my wife said she had heard a soft tapping at the front door and thought it was me, knocking softly so as not to disturb the children. She opened the door and there was this man who insisted he had to use our bathroom," Smith said.

CAUGHT IN KITCHEN

When she tried to close the door on him he pushed it open.
"Claire started running through the house to the back door and he caught her in the kitchen.""He pleaded with her to kiss him," professing he loved her,
Smith said. His wife broke away, but the youth caught her again, by the neck.
She screamed, awakening her 11-year-old daughter Irene, who ran in and also screamed, scaring the man off.

HOME ABANDONED

Smith said his family is so upset they felt they could not live in their new house.

on the United Nations to be held in the same hall and at the same time every Sunday until Dec. 3. Subjects to be discussed are control of outer space, practical ways of brotherhood and possible changes to the United Nations Charter.The lumber industry is one of the highest employers and taxpayers in Canada, a Duncan service club was told this week.Speaking during National Forest Products Week, Jack Stothers, manager of Western Forest Industries Ltd. at Honeymoon Bay, said the industry employs 350,000 workers with an annual payroll of $1,250, 000,000. Annual taxes paid by the industry amount to $200, 000,000.

VARIED USES

No other material in the world has as many uses as wood, he said. "There are now over 5,000 commercial items on the market made from wood."Despite greater production and higher usage, future of the lumber and forestry industry is assured. Sustained yield, patch logging, production of better seed, improved planting methods, and greater pest control are factors in assuring quicker harvest of healthier trees, Mr. Stothers said.Most of prime B.C. forests are from 100 to 1,000 years old, but he predicted the day
"is not too far off" when forests will be harvested in 50 years and less.

WORKMAN KIDNAPPED
'Slave Trade' Probed in U.K.
LONDON (AP)—Police are investigating a new slave trade in the bustling heart of London. A laborer claimed in court Wednesday that he had been kidnapped from a provincial city and forced to do demolition work in London. Later a police spokesman said demolition contractors were offering rooms to men who had been evicted or were out of work. When they got behind with the exorbitant rent they were told they must work off their debt by going to London where labor was in short supply and wages high, the spokesman added. If they refused they were taken by force, he said. In court at Newark, in Nottinghamshire County, Wednesday Derek Rawson, 30, claimed he had been tied up by nine of his landlord's employees and taken to London in a truck.

PRIVATE RADIO TO PAY MORE
OTTAWA (CP)—An increase in the annual fees paid by privately-owned radio and television stations will be ordered before the end of the year, informed sources said Wednesday. The increase could be substantial. The government's purpose is to collect enough from the private stations to pay for the services of the Board of Broadcast Governors and the technical experts in the transport department.

OAK BAY BEACH HOTEL
Following our special Sunday evening dinner on Oct. 23, we will be entertained by Peter Richards, young free-lance color photographer, who will show pictures of several Royal events including Princess Margaret's wedding, the Royal Canadian visit in 1959 and the recent visit of the Vanier to Victoria.

Peace Can Still Beat Columbia

By FRANK RUTTER

Peace River hydro promoters say they can beat the Columbia in starting construction and will apply to the Public Utilities Commission within five weeks for a certificate of convenience.

Peace president W. C. Mainwaring said today: "We can start work tomorrow. It will be two or three years before heavy construction can start on the Columbia."

BIGGEST PROBLEM

He put the finger on financing as the biggest single problem still to be resolved for the Columbia. He did not say anything about Peace financing.

Federal and provincial officials announced Wednesday the agreement on a draft of treaty principles between Ottawa and Washington.

The agreement involves three Canadian projects—dams on the Arrow Lakes, at Duncan Lake and at Mica Creek.

Cost will be $450,000,000 for dams and transmission lines. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said today he hopes B.C. and Ottawa can soon discuss the details. "The most practical system must be evolved," he said.

50-50 LOAN SPLIT

He indicated this doesn't include the 50-50 loan split proposed unofficially by Ottawa on self-liquidating projects.

That would mean Ottawa would loan B.C. half the $344,500,000 required to build the dams along at one eighth per cent above its market price.

Mr. Williston said a clause in the proposed treaty which would allow Canada to sell back her downstream benefits to the U.S. instead of using them as "only common."

It was put in as protection for the day when work on the first dam—at Arrow Lake—is completed and the U.S. can start using the water stored there to manufacture power.

OVER-SUPPLY

On that day, said Mr. Williston, B.C. might not be able to absorb the power returned as "benefit," and wouldn't want to waste it, or give it away.

Destroyers and frigates of the RCN Pacific Command today commenced a sweep in search of a submarine off the West Coast.

An official navy announcement stated only: "Surface units of the Canadian Maritime Command Pacific are investigating an unidentified contact off the West Coast."

In accordance with naval practice as laid down by regulations, specific area of the search was not revealed, nor were the names of the ships involved revealed.

However, a sudden change in naval ship movements today points to the destroyers HMCS St. Laurent and Ottawa, and the frigates HMCS Beacon Hill, New Glasgow, and Antigonish.

St. Laurent was scheduled to return at 10 a.m. Friday, Ottawa at 4 p.m. The three frigates, which left Wednesday, were due back early Monday. Return date for all five ships was altered today to "approximately Oct. 29."

Length of time allotted to the sweep would indicate the sighting was made some distance from this area.

There have been few sub sightings reported in recent months in the Pacific, but Friday an anti-submarine force headed by the U.S. carrier Kearsage headed out from San Diego to check out an unidentified contact.

Neither Canadian nor U.S. navies issue a public report on the results of such hunts, the purpose of which is to establish the identity of the contact if possible.

In the case of the Kearsage hunter group, the USN pointed out that the "bogy" was in international waters, and had every right to be there.

NEW MANAGER

'We Have Rocket-Armed A-Subs Too,' K Boasts

'UNREALISTIC ATTITUDE' SAYS SOVIET

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin has accused Canada of taking an unrealistic attitude towards disarmament negotiations.

Commenting on External Affairs Minister Howard Green's call Wednesday for an immediate return to negotiations, Zorin said Canada was asking for negotiations irrespective of whether a basis for them had been found or not.

"We cannot agree with this," Zorin declared. For 15 years Russia had negotiated but it would not participate in any more "fruitless" talks.

That would once again be "negotiations for the sake of negotiations."

Fishermen Rescued

HALIFAX (CP)—The Nova Scotia fishing boat Muriel Isabel sank 90 miles east of Cape Breton Island today but her 10 crew members were rescued without injury.

LONDON (Reuters)—Nikita Khrushchev told a meeting today in Moscow's Lenin Stadium that Russia now has atomic-powered submarines armed with rockets.

Khrushchev boasted of the new Soviet military power in a report to some 12,000 persons, including top party and government officials, on his visit to the United Nations General Assembly session in New York.

The claim was made as a counter to reports that the United States plans to establish a NATO fleet of atomic submarines armed with Polaris missiles and manned by international crews.

In his wide-ranging review of the General Assembly session, broadcast by Moscow Radio, Khrushchev pictured this session as a triumph for the UN.

to New York, as the site of UN headquarters and demanded that the Berlin problem must be settled by next year.

DISARMAMENT HUB

The Russian premier described disarmament as "the hub of all vital problems of our time" and charged that the West did not want serious disarmament negotiations but merely used the talks to camouflage its policy of continuing the arms race.

He said another summit-level meeting of the General Assembly was necessary in March or April to reach some agreement in principle on the question of complete disarmament.

He also renewed his attack on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, charging that he was "serving the monopolistic capital of the United States."

Khrushchev forecast that the "mechanical majorities" denying Communist China its rightful place in the UN would be overcome in the near future.

Khrushchev claimed Russia won the understanding and sympathy of many countries at the UN in "the struggle of the new, the progressive, with the old, the outworn, which is impeding the growth and development of the new."

BCE Rates Hearing By PUC, Nov. 16

The Public Utilities Commission has called a hearing Nov. 16 into its control over B.C. Electric rates.

The public hearing will be in Vancouver Public Library at 9 a.m.

The move follows a recent decision of the Supreme Court of Canada that the B.C. Electric may increase its rates at will within a "fair return" of 6.5 per cent on its operations.

Victoria and Vancouver city councils have been notified and invited to appear at the hearing.

ON GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE

U.S. Envoy Warns Of Cuban Attack

During Election Campaign

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Robert C. Hill, United States ambassador to Mexico, told the American Legion convention today that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro may attack the U.S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay in Cuba before the Nov. 8 U.S. presidential election.

He said such a "foolhardy" attack would be designed to "disturb the nation."

"If Castro moves on Guantanamo, the United States must defend the base with all our strength," Hill said.

"This ought to show that we mean business and will not tolerate any further affronts to our country in Cuba or anywhere else in the world."

Gaglardi Post Not Affected By Conviction

Constitutional experts expressed unofficial views today that the $1,000 fine levied on Highways Minister Phillip Gaglardi in Vancouver Wednesday for contempt of court, does not affect his position as a cabinet minister or MLA.

In any event Mr. Gaglardi is appealing the fine (see page 16), so that no question arises until a final decision in the case is made.

WHO WILL PAY FINE?

The case arose in connection with highway department payments to a contractor doing government work.

Also discussed in government circles was whether Mr. Gaglardi's fine, if upheld, would be paid by the government or personally. This presumably will be decided when the court action is finally settled. Mr. Gaglardi's position in the case was strictly a matter of his official position as head of the department, and Mr. Justice T. G. Norris said in his judgment that Mr. Gaglardi did not receive any benefit from it.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

These days of summer speak to us, O God, of Thy bounty and Thy goodness far beyond the measure of our worth. We acknowledge Thee and adore Thee as the source of every good and perfect gift. Show us how to express our gratitude. When the heat of the day tempts us to lose our self-control, be Thou to each of us the refreshing and restraining power to live quietly and in faith; through Christ. Amen.

FAKE AIR RAID CASTRO'S PLAN?

HAVANA (UPI)—An informed diplomatic source said today that five Cuban air force fighter planes were painted with U.S. air force insignia during the weekend at the suburban military airport of San Antonio de los Baños.

The diplomatic source identified the Cuban planes painted over at the army airport as single-engined British-made Sea Fury aircraft.

The planes were bought from British war surplus stocks several years ago by the regime of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The British used the Sea Fury, a propeller-driven aircraft, from aircraft carriers. They are armed with cannon as well as 50-calibre machine guns.

U.S. Firms Put Pressure On Canadian Subsidiaries

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent
(See also Page 5)

OTTAWA—Friction between United States and Canada is expected to arise as a result of the imposition by the American government of an embargo on trade to Cuba.

Attempts by United States parent companies to persuade Canadian subsidiaries not to export to Cuba will undoubtedly bring repercussions from the Canadian authorities.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has declined to comment on such possibilities. However in a statement two years ago Canada bluntly advised the Eisenhower administration that it would not tolerate American interference with exports of Canadian subsidiaries.

Canadian trade and commerce department officials said today already there are rumors in trade circles of American parent companies putting pressure on their Canadian subsidiaries not to ship to Cuba.

GO ELSEWHERE

There are reports too of American firms doing business in Canada informing their Canadian suppliers that they will take their business elsewhere if the Canadian firms start making shipments to Cuba.

Meantime it is expected in government circles here that Canada will take the position that it will not serve as a "back door" for the transshipment of American goods to Cuba. In other words it will not look with approval on a Canadian buyer obtaining shipments of American goods for re-shipment to Cuba.

CAN'T WORK

Ottawa is reported to have informed Washington that it does not believe that the United States' trade embargo against Cuba can work.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has certainly made it plain in a statement at Winnipeg, that Canada wants no part of the embargo. The prime minister at Winnipeg gave a flat rejection to suggestions that Canada join the U.S. in the embargo. He made that statement before Washington imposed the export ban.

Asked to comment in Ottawa after the U.S. announced its embargo Mr. Diefenbaker recalled his statement made in Winnipeg. It stood as government policy.

Embargo Request Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department said today it has been conferring with Canada for several weeks on how to stop U.S. exports to Canada from being trans-shipped to Cuba.

The department denied charges by the Cuban-controlled wire service, Prensa Latina, that the United States had asked Canada to place an embargo on Canadian exports to Cuba. An embargo was placed on most U.S. exports Wednesday.

A spokesman said the United States and Canada were studying how to prevent Canada from becoming a base for circumvention of the U.S. ban. But he said that no specific plan had yet been worked out.

FRENCH CRISIS

Socialists Rally To Upset Gov't

PARIS (Reuters)—French Socialists today rallied support for a censure motion to overthrow Premier Michel Debre's regime as France faced its biggest government crisis since President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic came into being two years ago.

The crisis has swirled up around De Gaulle's bid to give France its own nuclear striking force despite widespread reports the United States plans to give atomic weapons to NATO.

Debre Wednesday night was driven to making De Gaulle's proposal a vote of confidence in the National Assembly.

The procedure puts the nuclear bill through without a formal vote and the Socialists' only recourse is to submit a censure motion—which needs an absolute majority of the whole House with abstentions.

The Socialists, who want allied talks on an integrated nuclear deterrent within the Atlantic Alliance, immediately began wooing centre and right wing legislators who dislike Debre's "steamroller" tactics.

They scheduled a meeting for today to draft a censure motion which would go before the assembly Monday. Passage of the motion could lead to De Gaulle dissolving the assembly and calling new elections.

But the Socialists were given little hope of mustering enough support to counter the votes of 215 Gaullists and other government supporters in the 552-member House.

The De Gaulle plan is wrapped up in a $2,400,000,000 five-year armed forces modernization program under which 50 supersonic bombers would be built to carry French atom bombs while develop-bombs and missiles.

MAJOR NEW POLICY REVEALED

U.S. 'Open' Economy Promised by Nixon

NEW YORK (CP)—Richard Nixon, apparently sensing that his campaign needs a lift, today hinted at possible tax revisions if he becomes president.

In a major new economic policy speech, he said he would also attack "featherbedding" in all its forms, make price stability part of federal employment policy and set up a new economic council as a high government advisory body.

But perhaps of more interest to Canada and other exporters, he said he would keep the American economy "open" as part of an "imaginative, outward looking policy in international trade."

His economic policies, unveiled in a speech prepared for the Association of Business Economists, sounded more like those of a Democrat than those of a Republican. He talked of the need of reducing American dependence on government but at the same time enunciated programs which involved increased government action—something which Senator Kennedy also has been advocating. Nixon at the same time attacked what he described as opposition demands for lower interest rates at all times, saying this would invite foreign investors to pull their money out of the United States because of lack of confidence.

A lot of Nixon's policies were expressed in vague generalities but he made clear he favored "a tax system moving toward some revision in personal and corporate rates, reform in depreciation allowances, a broader base for excises at a rate well below those now in effect and protection of state and municipal revenues."

About $90 in coins was taken from the machines and from a cigarette vending machine on the premises.

A 12-man jury found Shaver guilty after his counsel, David Hummel, had said:

"Under British law it is more important that 100 guilty men should go free than that one man should be wrongly convicted."

Mr. Hummel argued that the evidence against Shaver was "only circumstantial."

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane said he would pass sentence Friday morning.

$90,000 TOPPED

First Home Collections 'Promising'

With the first returns from the residential campaign and payroll deduction plan beginning to come in, Greater Victoria Community Chest topped the $90,000 mark at noon today.

"First returns in the residential campaign are very promising," a Chest spokesman said.

Chest officials are hoping the fund will reach $100,000 by the end of the week. Campaign chairman Bernard Van Aggelen, expressed the same hope last week. Failure, then, was blamed on canvassers not forwarding donations to the Chest immediately they were received.

TWO WEEKS REMAIN
There are just two weeks left for Victoria citizens and businesses to raise this year's goal of $350,000.

Saturday afternoon shoppers will be entertained this week by the band of HMCS Naden. The band will be giving a concert of light music and "pops" on the parking lot adjoining the Dominion Hotel, corner of Blanshard and Yates.

The concert is another in the series of Chest presentations to publicize the campaign.

The following Saturday will see a pony express service between Sidney and Victoria. A team of horse riders will bring in Sidney's donations to the City Hall steps. It is hoped the amount will be enough to light up one of the $25,000 bulbs on the giant Red Feather at City Hall.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS MEET

Price Squeeze Hits Farmer

Because farm machinery and equipment must be bought at "monopolistic" prices and farm commodities sold at competitive prices, the economic situation of the farmer does not improve, Dr. Joseph J. Richter, assistant professor of agricultural economics, University of B.C., said here today.

Addressing the Pacific Northwest section, American Society of Agricultural Engineers in convention at the Empress Hotel, he said the farmer fails to progress also because a great part of his economic outlay is never properly depreciated and is therefore an "economic waste."

Dr. Richter said there was no way out of this "cost price" squeeze without "drastic interference by forces outside the developed 'self-adjusting free-enterprise scheme'."

He predicted that as more and more capital is channeled into machinery and equipment, farming will depend increasingly on supplies from industries they cannot control.

To surmount these problems, he proposed that the economic organization of agriculture should be changed, new market and price structures (forward pricing) introduced, and a new system of allocation of reserves introduced.

About 100 agricultural engineers are attending the three-day convention which opened today.

They were welcomed by Mayor Percy Scarrath.

By FRANK BUTLER

Peace River hydro promoters say they can beat the Columbia in starting construction, and will apply to the Public Utilities Commission within five weeks for a certificate of convenience.

Peace president W. C. Mainwaring said today: "We can start work tomorrow. It will be two or three years before heavy construction can start on the Columbia."

BIGGEST PROBLEM

He put the finger on financing as the biggest single problem still to be resolved for the Columbia. He did not say anything about Peace financing.

Federal and provincial officials announced Wednesday the agreement on a draft of treaty principles between Ottawa and Washington.

The agreement involves three Canadian projects — dams on the Arrow Lakes, at Duncan Lake and at Mica Creek.

Cost will be $450,000,000 for dams and transmission lines. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said today he hopes B.C. and Ottawa can soon discuss the details. "The most practical system must be evolved," he said.

50-50 LOAN SPLIT

He indicated this doesn't include the 50-50 loan split proposed unofficially by Ottawa on self-liquidating projects.

That would mean Ottawa would pay B.C. half the $344,500,000 required to build the dams alone at one eighth percent above its market price.

Mr. Williston said a clause in the proposed treaty which would allow Canada to sell back her downstream benefits to the U.S. instead of using them as "only common-sense."

It was put in as protection for the day when work on the first dam—at Arrow Lake—is completed and the U.S. can start using the water stored there to manufacture power.

OVER-SUPPLY

On that day, said Mr. Williston, B.C. might not be able to absorb the power returned as "benefit," and wouldn't want to waste it, or give it away.

The Socialists, who want allied talks on an integrated nuclear deterrent within the Atlantic Alliance, immediately began wooing centre and right wing legislators who dislike Debre's "steamroller" tactics.

They scheduled a meeting for today to draft a censure motion which would go before the assembly Monday. Passage of the motion could lead to de Gaulle dissolving the assembly and calling new elections.

But the Socialists were given little hope of mustering enough support to counter the votes of 215 Gaullists and other government supporters in the 552-member House.

The de Gaulle plan is wrapped up in a $2,400,000,000 five-year armed forces modernization program under which 50 supersonic bombers would be built to carry French atom bombs while development proceeds on hydrogen bombs and missiles.

The claim was made as a counter to reports that the United States plans to establish a NATO fleet of atomic submarines armed with Polaris missiles and manned by international crews.

In his wide-ranging review of the General Assembly session, broadcast by Moscow Radio, Khrushchev pictured the session as a triumph for Russia, pressed his opposition to New York as the site of UN headquarters and demanded that the Berlin problem must be settled by next year.

The Russian premier described disarmament as "the hub of all vital problems of our time" and charged that the West did not want serious disarmament negotiations but merely used the talks to camouflage its policy of continuing the arms race.

He said another summit-level meeting of the General Assembly was necessary in March or April to reach some agreement in principle on the question of complete disarmament.

He also repeated that it had become necessary to introduce changes in the structure of the UN to reflect the new balance of forces between the Communist, imperialist and neutralist states.

"By what right can Britain be regarded as a great power and India not a great power?" he asked.

He also renewed his attack on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, charging that he was "serving the monopolistic capital of the United States."

Khrushchev forecast that the "mechanical majorities" denying Communist China its rightful place in the UN would be overcome in the near future.
